Church conference set at GWU

Entitled "Effective Tools for the New Millennium," a church administration conference will be held March 2, 2000, on the Gardner-Webb University campus to address business and leadership issues that arise in the church. The conference is a partnership between the Gardner-Webb School of Business and the M. Christopher White School of Divinity.

Space is limited and organizers urge all who are interested to make reservations by February 25. A $35 registration fee covers all training sessions, study materials, and a luncheon on campus provided by Marriott. The one-day conference will be held from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. in the GWU Hamrick Hall Auditorium. Luncheon speaker is Sean Womack, founding partner and CEO of the Life@Work Company, and Senior Partner for the Cornerstone Group.

Session topics are: "Church Leadership in Biblical Perspective," "Legal Issues in the Church Setting," "Strategic Administration of the Church," and "Financial Stewardship of the Church."

Program faculty include: Dr. Wayne Stacy, dean, M. Christopher White School of Divinity; Dr. Charles Horton, director, GWU Center for Congregational Enrichment; Dr. Arlen Honts, dean, School of Business; Dr. Stephen Perry, assistant professor of strategic management; Van Graham, assistant professor of business law; Dr. Anthony Negbenebor, director of the GWU MBA program; Dr. Philip Swicegood, assistant professor of finance.

The conference is a preview of the type of material that will be featured this fall when Gardner-Webb begins offering the MBA/M.Div. dual-degree program, one of the few programs of its kind offered in the United States. The program is designed for clergy and lay people alike who are responsible for the strategic, financial, and spiritual management of a church.

To reserve a space, make checks payable to Gardner-Webb University and send to: Kim Sales/MBA Office, Gardner-Webb University, Campus Box 7272, Boiling Springs, N.C. 28017.

For more information, contact Dr. Wayne Stacy, dean, M. Christopher White School of Divinity, 704-406-4400, wstacy@gardner-webb.edu or anegbenebor@gardner-webb.edu.
