Grover council bans big rig truck parking

BY ALAN HODGE
Staff Writer

Owners of tractor-trailer trucks who think of parking their rigs in Grover's Spring Acres subdivision or on Amesbury Road have another thought coming.

That's the message the town council of Grover sent Monday night when they adopted a new ordinance prohibiting such actions.

"We've had restrictions on tractor-trailer parking in those areas for years," said Grover mayor Bill Favell. "Now we have an ordinance to back it up."

The new ordinance will restrict "usage and travel by tractor-trailer combinations and to restrict parking on those streets and street right of ways by all commercial vehicles. This would exclude vehicles making a pick up or delivery."

Streets in Spring Acres that fall under the new ruling include Springdale, Ivy, Timberland Brookwood, Woodside, and Briarcliff. New signage will also be erected to help enforce the rule.

In other business at Monday's council meeting, Robert Hunt reported that a move was finally underway to acquire a one acre lot off Hardin Circle for a Grover town library. The Library Association will purchase the land, then lease it back to Grover.

Grover's town park also got some attention at Monday's council meeting. Due to vandalism at the facility, work has started on removing several trees that were blocking the view of the picnic shelter. It was also announced that a new flood light will be installed on the shelter for better illumination.

In a special ceremony, Grover mayor Bill Favell read a proclamation to city clerk Barbara Barrett on her fine work for the city. The proclamation was in reference to the recent Municipal Clerk Week, April 30-May 6.

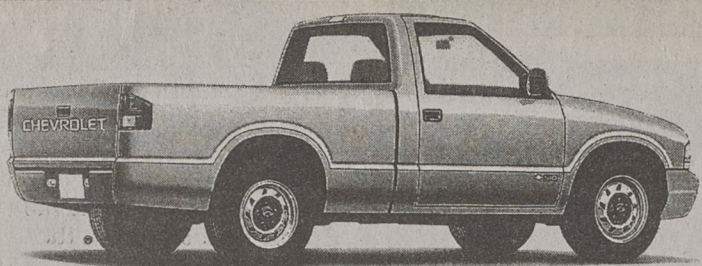

Grover's railroad crossings were part of councilman John Higginbotham's street report. Higginbotham was planning a meeting with Don Reese of the N.C.DOT and asked his fellow councilmen for input. The poor lighting and condition of the edges of the crossings were a major subject.

Citizen Edith Morgan addressed the council on what she should do about landscaping the spot in front of City Hall where a large tree had been removed. Morgan was appointed by the Grover Woman's Club to check into the job.

"What type of flowers or shrubs would you like?" Morgan asked council.

After much discussion, it was decided to go with some dwarf nandinas and varieties of annual flowers.
