CC Health Department receives child award

The Cleveland County Health Department recently received the GlaxoSmithKline Child Health Recognition Award. The seventh annual award was presented to seven health departments and individuals for their outstanding contributions to improving children's health in North Carolina. The department was honored for its Comprehensive Preschool Health Initiative, which is an integral part of the department's focus on preventive health services. Programs include expanded dental services to indigent children and those covered by Medicaid, and providing a child care health consultant to work with licensed and regulated child care centers and family care homes. The award carries monetary grants to use for special projects, staff development, an educational materials. Scholarship awards are also made to the North Carolina Public Health Association in the name of the individual recognition awards recipients.

Mayor proclaims AARP Month in KM

Mayor Rick Murphrey has proclaimed October as AARP Month in Kings Mountain in recognition of the contributions the Association has made through its statewide outreach with information, education, legislative advocacy, and community service programs that address the issues important to people 50 and older. In presenting the proclamation to Chapter President Arlene Barrett, Murphrey noted that AARP has over 85 local chapters in North Carolina where members gather monthly to discuss aging issues, socialize, and perform community service projects for those in need. KM Chapter 4063 meets the third Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the new H. Lawrence Patrick Senior Life and Conference Center. Visitors and potential members are invited. AARP is active throughout the year. The chapter helped register seniors receiving flu shots last fall, and will provide the same service this year. The group sponsored a "55 Alive" safe driving program in January and helped with the health fair in April. It had a booth at the Bethware Fair to distribute information to seniors, and joined other AARP chapters in the area on tours. The Kings Mountain Chapter, in conjunction with the Senior Center, will make their annual mountain trip. They continue to make lap robes for the elderly, and donated quilts to the Abuse Shelter.

The October meeting is slated for Tuesday, October 23 at 2 p.m. due to conflicts in the community.

Barrett said she would help local residents obtain information about other AARP programs and free publications. For information, call Barrett at 739-4233, call the AARP State Office in Raleigh at 919-755-9754 or send an email to NCAARP@aarp.org.
