Queen, Ammay Furman Scholars

Two individuals from Kings Mountain have been named 2003 Furman Scholars by the Greenville university.

Alex Queen, a student at Charlotte Catholic High School, and Kristen Ammay of Kings Mountain High School have received the honor.

Furman Scholars are invited to attend a special gathering on the campus in April. The event honors their academic achievement and better acquaints them with the university.

Furman Scholars who are accepted for admission to the university are guaranteed of receiving a $3,500 scholarship.

Furman is a private, liberal arts college of 2,600 students. It is listed among the nation's top 50 liberal arts colleges in the most recent U.S. News & World Reports rankings.
