Where do you go to get image-guided brain surgery?
Johns Hopkins, The Mayo Clinic, Gaston Memorial.

Brain surgery using a Stealthstation® imaging system is one of the most sophisticated medical procedures in the world. Three-dimensional images of the patient's brain are used to find the safest way to reach and remove tumors.

Now you may expect that only the most famous hospitals in the country have this technology and expertise - that you have to travel to faraway places to get this kind of medical care. But that's not the case. Gaston Memorial Hospital is at the forefront of advanced neurosurgery. It's just one part of our overall commitment to enhance the healthcare of our community.
