NEWS BRIEFS

Rabid raccoon found in KM

A raccoon picked up on Branchwood Circle recently has tested positive for rabies, according to Health Director Denese Stallings.

This makes the ninth rabies case reported in the county this year, and 89th since June 1998.

Stallings said that residents need to make sure their animals are under their direct control. Animals that are allowed to run loose are at risk of coming into contact with a rabid animal. If pets are not vaccinated, they will be euthanized.

During the next six months, anyone living in the vicinity of Branchwood Circle should observe their animals for unusual behavior. In addition, residents need to make sure that all cats and dogs have current vaccinations.

Anyone that sees an animal demonstrating unusual behavior should call Cleveland County Animal Control at 481-9884.

House bill would reduce gas tax

RALEIGH - Rep. Tim Moore has co-sponsored a House bill that would reduce the state's gas tax by eliminating the wholesale component of the motor fuels tax. The bill is House Bill 1679 and is currently under review by the House Committee on Finance.

If approved, the bill would set the state's motor fuels tax at 17.5 cents. Currently, the tax adds a wholesale component that could add 3.5 cents to 7 percent of the average wholesale price of motor fuel to the tax.

The motor fuels tax is now 24.3 cents and will increase to 24.6 cents in July.

Moore also said it was vital to rewrite the state's tax rate with the increase in gasoline prices the state has seen this year. "Removing the wholesale component would be a benefit for consumers," Moore said.
