Middle School eyeing good football year

Kings Mountain Middle School's football team is eyeing another good year in the Tri-County Conference.

Veteran coach Monty Deaton and his staff welcomed 70 players on the first day of practice. They are now down to 55 and have begun live contact drills. The team is steadily improving each practice and coaches are moving guys around to find their strengths.

"We have several players returning off last year's team that lost to Shelby in the championship game," Deaton said. "We have been working hard of the offensive side of the ball the past two weeks and will put in the defense this week."

Returning players on offense include quarterback Alex Reynolds, running backs Dashon Guest and Jacob Miller, and linemen Mason Fleisher, Nick Postell, Travis Oates, Austin Loman, Douglas Edgerton and Chaz Gamble.

Newcomers showing progress are Jordan Ford at running back, Landon Bolin and Derek Gann at tight end, Elijah Whitaker and Shawn Adams at wing/slot, and Xavier Johnson and Ezekial Grant at wide receiver.

Deaton said the Patriots will run a combination of two tight end set with some spread mixed in. Defensively, they will run the KM forty which proved highly successful at KMHS under Coach Denny Hicks, with some variations in short yardage situations.

"We are looking forward to another great season and the kids are working hard to get better," Deaton said. "Even though we are much smaller up front this year the guys are a lot quicker and aggressive. With Dashon, Jacob and Jordan in the backfield and these guys opening up holes and getting after it we should have a good year."

"Our first game (Wednesday, Sept. 9) is a re-match of last year's championship at Shelby, hopefully with a different result."

After that game, the Patriots will play three home games in a row against Lincolnton, West Lincoln and Crest and close the regular season with road games at East Lincoln, North Lincoln and Burns. The league championship game will be played on November 4.
