are involved in the project.

This year's presentation is entitled "Words" and demonstrates the significance of the things we say—or don't say—in effecting the lives of those around us. The main character, Russ, is a young man with a rough family history and the type of "emotional baggage" that creates depression and a sense of hopelessness.

As the fifth such presentation by the members of First Baptist Church, this drama is told in a series of scenes set up in various rooms of the church facility. The audience (of approximately thirty people) walk from one scene to the next as the story unfolds. Audience "tours" are launched every 15 minutes and the entire presentation takes approximately an hour. More than 80 shows will be presented this year, moving more than 2,000 people through the presentation.

Up until last weekend, reservations had been available through Regal Ventures Creative Ministries. All available pre-registration spots have now been booked, but preparations are made to handle walk-ins, so area families are still welcome to attend.

Presentation times for the upcoming weekend are: Friday, 6:30-10 p.m.; Saturday 3:30-10 p.m.; Sunday 3:30-7 p.m. Walkins are encouraged to come as early as possible. Presentations will be at First Baptist Church, on the corner 605 West King St. (Due to the serious subject matter involved, small children are not encouraged to attend.)

Pieces of family keepsake found

FAMILY KEEPSAKE - The quilt top above was displayed at the reunion of the family of John William and James Edward Carroll. The squares were the handiwork of Maggie Lee Carroll Causby, 7th child of 14 children of John William and Minnie Lee Goforth Carroll. Maggie Lee, who died in 1983, had stitched each child's name and birth date and death dates of her parents and the death dates of two brothers. The pieces were found by her son, Richard Causby, and he and his wife, Shirley, who pieced them into a quilt top, took it to the Carroll reunion. Jessie Carroll holds up the quilt top. The family has no inkling of how old the quilt pieces are.
