Steve Absher, Rich Milligan, Dave Robinson and Bob Jones shot an 18-under 54 Saturday to win the fifth annual Stoney Jackson Mission Golf Tournament at Kings Mountain Country Club.

Larry Jackson, Sonny Jackson, Trent Jackson and Jerry Jackson finished second with a 58. Eric Spicer, Bryant Wells, Ken Nantz and Johnny Gamble were third with a 58.

The best sport award went to Myron Cheek, David Hunter, Tyler Griffin and Jack Justice.

Justin Etters won the men's longest drive contest on hole #2. Susan Cloninger won the ladies longest drive, also on #2.

Bob Jones won the senior men's longest drive contest on hole #11.

Closest to the pin winners were Jerry Stewart on #5, Rodney Sellers on #8, Bob Jones on #12, Susan Cloninger on #16 and Joe Green on #17.

Steve Edsell won the longest putt contest on #2.

The tournament organizers - Stoney and Peggy Jackson, Pastor and Mrs. Robert Eng and Becky Lineberger, director of the Kings Mountain Crisis Ministry - said they appreciated the golfers and sponsors for making the tournament a huge success.

All proceeds will be used by the Crisis Ministry to assist people in the Kings Mountain area in crisis situations, including helping pay utilities, rent, medicine, food, clothes, gasoline, baby food, baby formula, baby diapers, Depends, transient situations and other referrals.

The Crisis Ministry is sponsored by the Kings Mountain Ministerial Association and is ruled and governed by a board of directors consisting of interfaith ministers and community leaders.

Rev. Eng, pastor of New Life Family Worship Center, said the generous contributions from golfers, contributors and sponsors have made the five tournaments a tremendous success. Previously, funds were used to build churches and Bible colleges in Africa.

"Together, we are furthering the work of God's kingdom," Rev. Eng told the golfers and sponsors. "Serving others is our joy."
