MOUNTAINEERS: open practice with hard hitting

The coaching staff will get a chance to see their players go against two quality opponents in scrimmages this week. Tonight, they travel to Morganton to take on the Freedom Patriots at 6 p.m., and that is always a strong test. Friday at 8, the Mountaineers will play in the Cleveland County Jamboree at Crest against powerful Northwestern High of Rock Hill, the pre-season favorite to win the 4A state championship in South Carolina.

Lloyd said the Mountaineers will be looking at several areas that need to be clicking by the time the regular season starts.

"We will be working on timing, tackling well, playing hard and getting into the flow of game situations," he said. "We'll use this week to get ready for our opener next week. This is an important week."

Judging by the talent and experience, this season could be the Mountaineers' best since 2008 when they went 11-4 and played for the Western North Carolina championship.

"We're very optimistic and confident," Lloyd says. "A lot of that is due to the caliber of people we have on and off the playing field. We're working hard to get ready. We're excited to have Jonathan back at quarterback and feel like he'll have an excellent season. We're going to need some of the younger players to step up, but if we stay healthy we'll be in the running in the Big South. We have good players and a good coaching staff. We've added some guys that are good coaches and we think it's going to pay off."

The offense and defense square off in a scrimmage at Saturday's first hitting practice at KMHS.
