Jumping for Healthy Heart

In February, students in Kathy James' Physical Education class at North Elementary School in Kings Mountain participated in Jump Rope for Heart. By learning jump rope skills and how the heart works, students learned to make a difference by raising donations to help individuals with special heart conditions. Students learned that by promoting a healthy school environment, they increase attendance, better behavior, and greater academic achievement.

Contest helps students learn about money and finance

Thanks to Fifth Third Bank, Kings Mountain High School is helping students learn about money and finance through Dave Ramsey's Foundations in Personal Finance curriculum.

Starting April 10, Ramsey and Fifth Third will host a financial literacy contest for high school students nationwide. All students scoring 100 percent on the online quiz will be eligible for prizes, including three $5,000 scholarships for seniors and two Google Chrome book laptops for underclassmen.

The contest will be hosted on 53schools.com from April 10-17.
