Is it true that people feel better when the wind is out of the northwest?
 Yes, as a general rule--which has its exceptions--this weather folklore is correct. Benjamin Franklin even detected the good effects of a northwest wind and wrote that the best time to do business with a man was when the wind was out of the northwest.
 This is true because usually our high-pressure clear weather systems come from the northwest. This high pressure, giving one a feeling of mild exhilaration and a cheerful mood, is especially welcome in the early fall after the hot humid weather of late summer.
 So, in a general sense, a northwest wind is a sign of cheerfulness and "business" weather.

Members and Guests of New Life Baptist Church gathered at Future Site located 6 miles South of Shelby on Hwy. 18 for organizing service recently. Participating in the Constituting Service Were: Rev. Edwin McGinnis, Dr. Eugene Poston, Rev. C.O. Greene, and Rev. Robert S. Low, pastor of New Life.

51st State?

Though there's little chance it could happen, an organization in the Philippines has begun to urge that this nation of 37,000,000 become the 51st state in the United States!

This effort begins at a time when other Latins and natives in Puerto Rico are also considering becoming a U.S. state. Hopefully, the people on both islands will prefer independence.

The experiment of going beyond the hemisphere to add Hawaii is still to be proven wise or unwise. In any event, the addition of Alaska and Hawaii didn't add huge blocs of peoples with little in common with the origins, purposes, culture and government of the United States. There is too much yet to be alleviated and accomplished at home for us to consider the taking on of the many involved social problems of island millions elsewhere.

voiced announcer for ABC. Can you take a middle-of-the-road approach to Cosell's personality? You cut off Howard or you accept his pompous remarks as the Gospel.

Baltimore has the pitching and the power to win the World Series -- if the Orioles can outlast the A's. But even with their beautiful balance, the Orioles aren't exactly a team to love. Respect, yes. They aren't lovable. As a manager Earl Weaver is competent and knows the game. But who, other than the Rotary Club, would book Earl Weaver to make a speech? Mr. Stengel drew 'em from miles around.

As for the Giants and the Pirates, it's a toss-up in who makes the grade. The Giants have Willie Mays who does things better in his old age than most men 20 years his junior. Without Mays and Willie McCovey, the Giants have about as much color as a battleship on maneuvers.

Pittsburgh has class in its movement and some astonishing power at the plate. But the Pirates aren't as exciting as their name.

Football simply has me thinking about touchdowns and pitchouts and the perfectly executed runback of a punt with a wall of blocking. It makes the baseball season seem fuzzy.

Baseball people ought to get smart and play the Series in mid-September when a man can think straight. Watch a pro game on television, then switch to a baseball game. It's like viewing a horse race on one channel against a harness race on the other. I'm sure both will have their dedicated fans, but the fastest and most pulsating should win out. Football's tempo is the big winner in the fall.

Hope for accord on currency crisis is dim.

PORTS OF CALL

By Edward H. Sims

Despite current advertising and promotion about new low-cost fares, today's best buy for scheduled round-trip jet service to Europe is International Air Bahama from Nassau or Icelandic from New York.

IAB is now offering a one-to-sixteen day excursion fare to and from Europe for $265. Though mentioned in this column on one or two occasions previously, this fare is worth repeating because it is the best bargain, other than the charters, European travelers can find.

The ads about new, low airline fares read, in small print below, that the low fares are applicable beginning next February--four months from now. IAB fares have been low from the beginning of its service.

Frank Menick, regional sales manager for IAB, says fares might at a later date change for the better, though he sees no price competition right now. He says the IAB fare for a man and his wife, from Miami to Luxembourg and return, is less than the fare for the man alone on any scheduled airline flying from Miami, for a trip of less than 17 days.

"A business man and his wife flying with us, round-trip from Miami, will pay $614--or $32 less than the $646 single fare on the major scheduled airlines. Also, our passengers can stop over in Nassau if they wish to add a sun tan to their European trip," Menick says.

He adds that few of the other scheduled airlines offer one-class service with free beverages of all kinds plus excellent cuisine except in their first-class sections. IAB offers such service to all its passengers.

Admittedly, the new low fares coming into effect next year will pose a question for IAB--whether to lower fares to continue beating the competition. What the major airlines are doing is cutting their rates to a level lower than IAB rates, just a bit higher than that of charter carriers.

If IAB cuts rates to stay well below the major scheds after February 1st, the traveler will have the best-ever bargain opportunity next year. As of the moment, and until February, it will pay many living in the north and west to fly to Nassau, to leave for Europe!
