DEFINES FLUFFING

Fluffing is a term used to describe the lint and fuzz that appear on newly installed carpet. It is merely the factory-sheared pile ends working their way to the surface, not the tufts or pile yarns themselves. This condition disappears as the carpet is used.

KEEP THE LID ON "Keep the lid on" is good advice when you're cooking most vegetables. But Mrs. Ariene Gentry, a Durham County nutrition program aide, had a hard time convincing one of her homemakers.

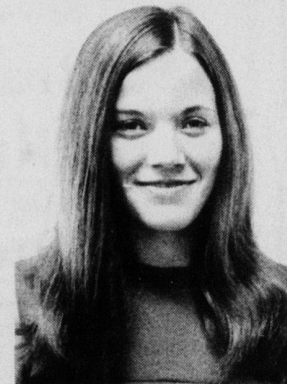

"Everytime I put a lid on a pan, the food boils over," the woman said.

The aide discovered the woman cooked all her foods at a high temperature. She suggested the homemaker cover the pan and lower the cooking temperature. "You will save on cooking time, nutritive value and electricity," the aide pointed out. After trying the recommendations, the homemaker could see and taste the difference in her food, but when the electric bill came, she became a believer.

Cynthia is a member of the First Baptist Church where she is assistant organist, a member of the Youth Council, Youth Choir and Drama Group. She is also pianist for beginner and primary choirs. In addition to all these activities, she is also the director of the primary and junior choirs at Temple Baptist Church. Cynthia teaches piano and organ too.

As a member of "The Good News Singers of America," Cynthia toured Europe and the Soviet Union in 1970. Also in 1970, Cynthia represented Cleveland County at the Governors' Conference in Children and Youth.

Wetness Not All Result Of Rain

Another partially wet weekend has come and gone leaving me wondering how many more times the lawn mower will be needed. The rain is getting to be a habit now and seems vaguely familiar to the climate over the Atlantic where the umbrella is a necessary addition to one's wardrobe.

Looking out of the kitchen window onto a wet patio is a frequent past time of mine, but I must add that the wetness is not always the result of rain. Unfortunately, due to extremely high water pressure on my side of town, the hot water heater is constantly overflowing and alternates between a steady trickle and pulsating jets of water depending upon the appliances then in use. I hate to see water, especially hot water, going to waste in such a manner. However, in case anyone is experiencing similar difficulties, I have been assured by a city council member that the high water pressure will soon be reduced by the city. Upon recommendation of the city engineer, the necessary equipment is on order and should be delivered and installed in the near future.

If, however, the present rate of rainfall continues, I can expect my patio to remain wet a good proportion of the time. Perhaps conversion to a swimming pool is the solution!

Life's A Drama For "Boots" McDaniel

By SYLVIA HOLMES

One of the busiest people in Kings Mountain this week will be Joe Ann "Boots" McDaniel. As director of the Little Theatre's production of "The Mousetrap", Boots will be finalizing all the details and readying a cast of eight characters for the production's opening night on Friday November 5th. Technical rehearsals, dress rehearsal, coordinating with the backstage crew and house committee will leave Boots with very little spare time to herself during the next few days. Although the magnitude of these type of responsibilities, might overwhelm some, Boots always feels at home in the realm of the theatre. Born in Arcadia Florida, and graduated from Greensboro Sr. High School, 'Boots' majored in drama at Brenau and appeared in numerous college productions. She was a frequent performer in the Kings Mountain Little Theatre in its first year. Having also taught drama for a period of time at Kings Mountain High School, she subsequently directed two junior/senior plays. Boots is the daughter of Mrs. O.O. Walker of Kings Mountain and she is employed by Quinn Sales in Gastonia.

When the Little Theatre re-activated in 1969, Boots had the leading role of Mrs. Savage in "The Curious Savage". The following year she played the step-mother in "Cinderella" and directed "Barefoot in the Park."

Boots does not confine her dramatic moments to the stage exclusively. She was recently the victim of three armed robbers who held up her car on her way to deposit her firm's money in the bank. The criminals have not yet been apprehended nor has the money been recovered.

Pencil "Puzzle"

By JANICE R. CHRISTENSEN

The phone in the Vance County Extension Office rang off the wall recently, as youth after youth called to ask for some "4-H" pencils.

Since the office did not stock such an item, Mrs. Carolyn R. Stanley, home economics extension agent, decided to get to the bottom of the mysterious requests. She finally did. A local science teacher had asked her class to obtain a No. 4 hard, or a 4H pencil.

One class member promptly informed his friends that the place to get 4-H materials was the County Extension Office.

"A little knowledge is a dangerous thing," the agent laments.
