Newlyweds Must Make Financial Plans Early

Raleigh -- Brides and grooms soon find out that two can live as cheaply as one--but for only half as long.

When this awareness couple has hits, the young couple has to make concrete plans concerning money matters, if they have not already done so, note extension family relations specialists, North Carolina State University.

Before marriage, both young people could spend money pretty well as they pleased. But not after marriage. The money was his or hers; now it's theirs.

The couple will face these questions. Who opens charge accounts? Who pays the bills? What kind of bank account will we have? Does one have to ask the other for money? Is one accountable to the other?

The best way to decide money matters is together, the specialists believe. As a couple you need to discuss abilities and ambitions. You need to determine who needs to do what and who needs to have what done for him. Find out who can keep the check book balanced. Find out whose judgement on merchandise is sound.

"No less important," say the specialists, "is the revealing of feelings." one resents having to ask the other for money, as he probably does, say so. If one thinks that "the head of the house" has certain responsibilities, say so. To such feelings more divisive than to reveal

Q. I am 80 years old and enrolled in Medicare. Because of my poor health, it is impossible for me to go to the social security office. Can someone from the social security office come to my home to help me fill out a claim for payment on some doctor bills?

A. Yes, if necessary, a social security representative can come to your home to help you file your claim. However, in many cases you can get the help you need over the telephone. Call any social security office and ask them for assistance. They will complete your claim form and mail it to you for your signature. You can then mail the claim form and your medical bills to the Medicare office.

Q. I am 68 and collect monthly social security re-tirement benefits. But I also work part time during the year. How often should I ask the social security office to refigure my benefits based on additional earnings to see if I am due an increase in my checks?

thing to do? Eloise--Kan.

Answer: I do not live with my son but I ride with him and his wife a great deal and this is what I do. When they come for me M usually says "Mother, sit up there with Tom" and I usually say I prefer the back seat. If the ride is short and they insist. the three of us sit in front with me next to the door. Of course I am well and alert but the situation could be different if I had arthritis and found it difficult to get in the back seat. I think it makes a difference, also, if the mother is invited occasionally for a ride or is a rather regular passenger. On the occasional ride I think it would be proper for the daughter-inlaw to offer the older lady a seat by her son but if it is a regular thing with mother living in the house I think she should be the one to ask for the rear seat. Personally, couldn't care less whether sat in the front or the back and a wife should always come first with her husband. Mother will probably have more attention if she is agreeable and easy to get along with.

Louisa.

Dear Louisa, I am a forty year old woman with one child who is married. I have been very friendly with a man who is in his late sixties. He is well fixed as to finances and seems to be in good health. He has asked me to marry him and I am thinking of accepting him altho' my sisters are opposed to it. They say I will be taking on an old man to take care

Now, Louisa, I am not out looking for romance but it would be nice to have an intelligent man to talk to in the evening or to have someone to go with me to theaters or other places in the even-ing. What do you think of companionship marriages for lonely people?
