Seniors To Graduate On May 26th

Graduation for Seniors at Kings Mountain High School has been set by the Board of Education for Friday, May 26th.

The 31st is the last regular day of school, and Seniors, who are exempt from final exams, will have the privilege of graduating early.

School Psychologist To Be Hired

The City Board of Education approved Monday the employment of a school psychologist on a part-time basis, being shared with the County and Shelby School Systems.

The school psychologist will be employed on a trial basis until July 1st at a cost of $900 to the school systems, and will be available one day a week, located in the Childhood Education Center. The psychologist will be available to students referred to him.

Does a red sunrise indicate rain before the end of the day, as the saying goes? There's little scientific support for this belief, which is also a part of a rhyme concerning both red sunsets and red sunrises. A red sunrise merely indicates dusty atmosphere to the west in most areas of the country--not a sign of rain.

A red sunset is an indication, in fall and winter, of dry weather and probably cold weather, more often than not. A red sunrise would seem to have the same value as a weather clue.

Therefore, in the famed rhyme about red sunrises and red sunsets, the folklore about the sunrise would be wrong while the old belief about the sunset would more often than not be correct.

Taylor Adds Campaign Co-Chairman

Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor and Dr. Cecil L. Barrier

Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor announced Sunday afternoon in Wadesboro the appointment of Dr. Cecil L. Barrier as a co-chairman of his campaign for Governor in Cleveland County. Dr. Barrier will serve as a campaign co-chairman with Beverly Lattimore of Shelby and Bill Plonk of Kings Mountain who were appointed by Taylor last week.

Dr. Barrier, who will co-ordinate the Taylor campaign for Upper Cleveland, came to Cleveland County in 1960. He is a graduate of Crossnor High School in Crossnor, N.C. He attended Berea College in Berea, Kentucky and received his Bachelor of Medicine degree from the University of North Carolina. He received his doctorate of medicine degree from the UNC Medical School in 1959 and interned at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond. Upon completion of his internship, he set up his medical practice at Bellwood Medical Clinic in Upper Cleveland County.

Dr. Barrier is married to the former Mary Lou Lamm of Alexandria, Virginia and they have one son, Cecil L., Jr. The Barriers attend St. Peter's Methodist Church.

Barrier has been active in Cleveland County politics for the past twelve years and assisted his wife in her successful campaign for the Cleveland County School Board.

He is a past president of the Fallston Lions Club and past chairman of the Upper Cleveland Rescue Unit. Barrier is a member of the Fallston Lions Club; The Upper Cleveland Chamber of Commerce; the Cleveland County, North Carolina, American and Southern Medical Associations; the American Academy of General Practitioners; the Association of American

NEWS REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C.--Whatever the polls show in measuring voter preference, and one major poll recently showed Hubert Humphrey ahead of Edmund Muskie, the fact is that Muskie's forces are well ahead in the lining up of convention delegates, the real key to the nomination.

Muskie is now ahead in the key states of New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, California and in the South. More prominent Democrats have flopped into his corner recently than into that of any other candidate. He is still the candidate to beat, by a good margin, even though his campaign hasn't stirred great enthusiasm among Democratic voters.

In the coming months Hubert Humphrey will increase the pressure, now that he's running again. He and Muskie must be ranked the leading contenders in a field now quite large. Humphrey, insiders say, has considerable financial backing and is the one candidate--at this stage--who can call in almost as many top party figures in behalf of his campaign as Muskie. The party's 1968 nominee is now locked in a close contest with his running mate of that year.

Senator George McGovern, after a year's campaigning, is having his problems. Liked by almost all who interview or question him, McGovern has nevertheless been badly hurt by the President's defusing of the Vietnam war as an emotional, crisis-issue of the moment.

Unless he can move mountains soon--and this would be quite a feat--McGovern's chances will grow even slimmer.

Eugene McCarthy could hurt liberal candidates such as John Lindsay, in key states such as New York, and George Wallace will surely hurt moderate Democrats such as Henry Jackson in the South, now that they're committed.
