The Junior Charity League of Shelby has issued invit-

a means of publishing offenses. This plan, submitted by Mr. Blaine Froneberger, a faculty member, allows a student a total of fifteen demerit points before he is suspended for one day. After readmission to school, the student is placed on a 5-week probation period wherein he may receive only 5 demerits before being suspended for 2 days. Every time thereafter when the student received 5 more demerits, his suspension time is doubled.

Construction To Begin On 150,000 Vol. Dover Library

Gardner-Webb College's new John R. Dover, Sr., Library will be under construction in a few weeks and it will be one of the finest structures of its kind in the Carolinas.

College officials announced that the three floor building will contain more than 45,000 square feet of floor space and will have space for more than 150,000 books.

The building is named in honor of John R. Dover, Sr., whose family has meant so much to the college over the past years. This community minded man founded the Dover Textile Group and he and his family have made it possible for scores of young people to get an education, who would have not have otherwise, through all types of scholarships.

The campus already has the Charles I. Dover Campus Center, the Dover Memorial Library and other facilities made possible through the general gifts of the Dover family in the past years.

The new library constitutes the core of the academic program of the college which is brand new in the field of senior colleges. Gardner-Webb, under the presidency of Dr. E. Eugene Poston, entered the senior college field in the Fall of 1969 and has already gained senior college accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, the highest accreditation by the Southern Association, the highest accreditation agency. This was gained the first time the college applied for it.

The library's basement floor will house a teaching material center, an audio-visuals laboratory, a library - science classroom, a record room and some book stacks and a study area.

The main floor will include the periodicals area, a special collections room with archives for donated collections which have been given to the school. There will be a reference section, circulation area, card catalog, library offices and a lounge for the staff and a staff work area along with an outside loading dock. The third floor will have seating space, book stacks and individual and group study rooms.

The new building will be constructed in an area now being used for a parking lot on the south end of the campus near the College's Best Physical Education Building.

Paint Inexpensive Way To Glamorize Kitchen

By JANICE R. CHRISTENSEN

Paint can correct personality problems in the kitchen by offering glamour in an inexpensive way.

Orange County homemaker, Mrs. Bobby Holt, realized the old finish on her kitchen cabinets was down right dull and depressing. So she decided to do something about it.

She got out her paint brush and antiqued her cabinets an avocado green that matched the color of her large kitchen appliances. Now the kitchen is a pleasing and exciting place to work.

Mrs. Holt told Mrs. Bonnie Davis, home economics extension agent, "I got lots of pleasure out of redecorating my own kitchen. And I saved money by doing the job myself."

SAMPLE WAS AMPLE
Last spring, Mrs. Claude Gullett, Salisbury, attended an extension workshop on drapery making. At day's end she had made a sample drapery one yard long.

"I thought the workshop was a waste of time," the homemaker confessed. "But I recently learned that the sample was ample."

Several months after the workshop, Mrs. Gullett decided to make new draperies for her kitchen, dining room and two bedrooms.

There was the sample, handy to look at whenever she needed to check her sewing techniques, says Edith Hinshaw, home economics extension agent, Rowan County.

WAIT WORTH WHILE
Sometimes you have to wait four or five years to see a plan become a reality. But the wait is usually worth while.

About four years ago, Jessie Ann Wingo, home economics extension agent, Cleveland County, helped a family draw plans for remodeling their house.

When they finally got around to remodeling the kitchen, den and bath, late last year, only a few minor changes had to be made on the original remodeling plans.

The house is close to 100 years old, added the agent. And the last remodeling had been done 30 or more years ago.

The trouble with life today is that there're too many people who recommend themselves too highly.
