Questions and Answers

Q. My 18-year-old son has been getting monthly social security checks since his father died. He is going to get a job for the summer vacation this year. Will he stop getting his monthly benefit checks when he starts working?

A. It depends on his earnings for the whole year. A student can continue to get benefits for all months in a year in which he earns $1,680 or less for the year in wages. If he exceeds $1,680, then $1 in benefits is withheld for every $2 of earnings up to $2,880. Above $2,880, an additional $1 in benefits is withheld for every $1 earned. Regardless of how much his yearly earnings are, however, he can still receive a benefit payment for any month in which he neither earns $140 or more nor performs substantial services in self-employment.

Have a question about social security and its retirement, survivors, disability or Medicare benefits? See your telephone directory for the phone number and address of the nearest social security office.

From Auschwitz
to Social Security

In 1944, Henry Eisler, a tailor in Czechoslovakia, was sent to a Nazi concentration camp where all records of his identity were destroyed.

After the war, Eisler moved to Minneapolis, Minnesota, where he lived and worked until retirement age. Then, in effect, he had to prove his very existence when he applied for monthly social security benefits. Today, he is retired and gets monthly checks from social security.
