

Carolina 100 To Run Sunday Night

The Carolina 100, a 100-lap Late Model Sportsman stock car race, has been scheduled for Sunday night here at the Carolina Speedway.

Carl Smart of Hickory, N.C., who wheeled his Dunlap - engined Chevy II to his third victory of the season two weeks ago, is the odds-on favorite for Sunday's race. Joining Smart in the chase for the top money will be a field which should surpass 25.

Promoter Edgar "Rock" Gault reports that the first 20 finishers will get a share of the purse. "Because of the length of Sunday's main event, we won't have Hobby or Rookie races," Gault said. "But we are opening the Carolina 100 to any Hobby driver who wants to compete with the Sportsman drivers."

Gault said the track will be in good shape for Sunday's race. "We had some trouble when we were having so much rain, but this past week it held up beautifully and should be in top shape Sunday," Gault said.

Other top Sportsman drivers slated include: Stick Elliott, in a Camaro; Billy Scott, in a Camaro; Charlie Blanton, in a Camaro; Heyward Plyler, in a Mustang; Freddy Smith, in a Camaro; Larry Wallace, in a Mustang; Daniel Warlick, in a Chevy II; Mike Duvall, in a Chevy II; Mike Humphries, in a Camaro; and all the other top competitors on the local circuit.

Drivers will compete in heat races to determine how they will line up for the main event. If necessary, a consolation race will be held to qualify those who fail to qualify in the heat races.

Admission for Sunday's big event will remain the same; $4 for adults; All children under 12 will be admitted free.

Gates will open at 6 p.m., with racing getting underway at 8. Carolina Speedway is located nine miles south of Gastonia on Highway 274.

There I was feeling sorry for Lee Trevino and being touched by his $5,000 donation to the children's hospital after he won the Memphis Open.

Then word comes down from up high that poor ol' Lee has won $98,000 so far this year. You know, that isn't bad. Trevino and most of the other big names in golf invade North Carolina again this week for the Kemper Open. That will be played at the long and lush Quail Hollow Country Club in Charlotte.

The course is in excellent condition. Trees have been planted in five fairways to keep the pros from hauling off and hitting the ball a ton without fear of where it might wind up.

The Quail Hollow course definitely favors the long hitters.

Riva Ridge might be a thoroughbred—but he sure made a jackass out of those of us who felt he was a shoe-in for racing's Triple Crown....Former stock car driver Tim Flock is the talk of the golf course when he plays. He putts with a putter that is barely two-feet long.

When Freddie Schaus quit as general manager of the World Champion L.A. Lakers to take the head basketball job at Purdue, he took a cut in pay and went to work for George King, who used to work for Schaus.

Something sounds screwy about that situation.

There's nothing wrong with baseball that a little excitement wouldn't cure....Professional basketball ended just in time to begin fall practice... America's chess champion--his name slips my mind--says he won't be upset if he loses a big match. "If I ever lose, I know it would be a flake."

Controversial golfer Frank Beard says that just because the U.S. Open is played on a course, it doesn't make the course great. Hazeltine, site of the 1970 U.S. Open, is not a good test of golf, says Beard. And about Pebble Beach, site of this year's Open, Beard says: "It's an unbelievably beautiful area but the course isn't the greatest we play."

Jerry Savio talking about golfing buddy Bob Roedel: "Bob's a PGA. A professional guest."

Bob Short, the owner of the Texas Rangers, is finding out that in sports, unlike politics, a loser in Washington is also a loser in Texas.

TENNIS * * *
By Pete Fritchie

Washington, D. C. - The tennis match between Rod Laver and Ken Rosewall for what American promoters call the world tennis title has to have been the best major match seen in this country in years. The good part is that so many millions watched it on television; only recently has U.S. TV offered much tennis to the general public.

Ken Rosewall at 37 is one of the all-time great players; Rod Laver is perhaps the greatest of all time. Last year Ken upset Laver to win the first world title and Laver was obviously all-out to reverse the score this year. But little Ken finally won again in tiebreaker of the fifth set, with two climactic backhand returns of service that were winners Rod didn't touch. Admittedly, Laver was not his best much of the afternoon. But some of the cause was Rosewall's tennis, his marvelous lobs, drop shots and steady backline play.

Laver was obviously nervous after his game, so strong at the outset, began to fall in the second set, especially his service, the big gun of his attack.

Russell Secrest for Insurance Commissioner

Reasonable, responsible leadership to solve our insurance problems.

Re-Elect FRITZ MOREHEAD, JR.

I appreciate the support given me in the past 4 years and the vote given me on May 6. I have honestly tried to be a representative of every citizen in the county these past 4 years.

By going through Kings Mountain twice a day and working with many citizens from Kings Mountain I have learned many of their problems and a solution to many of them has been reached.

In addition to the tax money spent for education locally, the Health Dept. facilities have been increased with the co-operation of Kings Mountain Commissioners. Your county tax dollars are being spent to provide 2 garbage containers just north and south of Kings Mountain. We hope in the very near future to provide a better system on garbage that will benefit the entire county. Your county tax dollars were spent to extend the water line out to Spectrum and provide sewer services for same. Your tax dollars furnish dog wardens and a certain amount of police protection by the Sheriff Dept. for the Kings Mountain area. None of those services are what we would like for them to be but it is a start. With the amount of tax paid by Kings Mountain area residents I feel your services should be much more.

If re-elected I will work to improve these services to see it written in the laws that all areas will have a representative on the Board of County Commissioners.

I am not running against anyone. My only desire is to retain one of the two seats available and to serve Cleveland County. Saturday is the day of the decision. Use it for the good of all concerned. Go vote.
