

Bicen Planning Urged

occasions not be just a day for fireworks, but should include the arts and sciences and that it not be just a celebration of the past, but an effort to cheer the present.

Third, horizons. The state chairman said this means building for the future. Determining the needs to be met to beautify and stimulate the community. He said to ask yourselves what will you do to mark your heritage? What legacy will you leave?

At the July 3 meeting, well attended by members of the Cherokee County, S. C. Bicentennial Committee, it was learned that plans as far as that county are concerned are almost completed in connection with the Appalachian Consortium planned Overmountain Victory Trail march.

The march is a re-enactment of the two week forced march undertaken by Revolutionary War Americans to meet British troops and loyalists at Kings Mountain. R. L. (Rip) Collins of the Appalachian Consortium is the man behind this historic event.

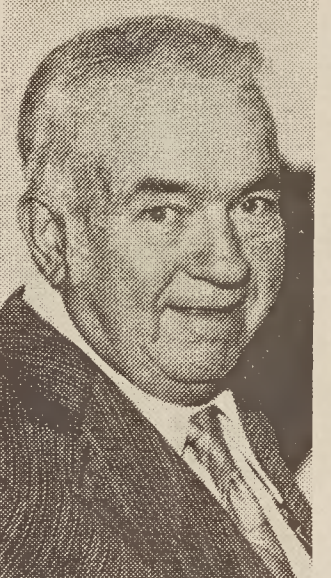

Collins said the Consortium is sponsoring the march, but that special events along the line of march (from Sycamore Shoals, Tenn. to Kings Mountain National Military Park) are left to the communities and counties wishing to participate.

dency in 76-77. Miss Stewart, who served two terms as Unit 155 president, was District 23 president, and completed this year a term as Division V president, she received the award as Division President of the Year for her leadership of 41 units of 2,500 members this year. She has also served as chairman of committees on Americanism and Communications and is a member of the state Task Force committee.

Kings Mountain Unit 155 honored Miss Stewart at a reception Friday evening and assisting in entertaining from the local Unit and Post were Mrs. Ruth Gamble, president;

Mrs. Orangrel B. Jolly; Vice Commander Stonewall Jackson and Mrs. Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hampton; Mrs. Jackie D. Barrett; Carl Wilson and Rick Moore.

No Curb Market Response

Response to the old fashioned produce curb market has not been overwhelming, according to W. S. (Corky) Fulton 111, the downtown merchant who proposed the project.

Last week the downtown merchants offered to sponsor the project in conjunction with the Kings Mountain Redevelopment Commission "to provide a place where local growers may sell their produce on a regular basis."

Fulton said this week "we are still hopeful local produce growers will take us up on the offer."
