Firemen Back

Grover firemen who resigned May 29 in a dispute with the town council are back on the job following a meeting of firemen and council Monday night at Grover.

Joe Boheler continues as Chief of the volunteers.

Both firemen and the board agreed to the following:

That the old fire truck be mechanically repaired.

That the new fire truck will be used for fire calls inside the town and on mutual aid calls outside town while old fire-truck is repaired. Once the old firetruck is repaired, it will be used on mutual aid calls with the new one being used in cases of "extreme emergencies."

That the town council and fire department and fire chief make a personal pledge to one another to attend at least one of the other's meetings once a quarter.

Shelby Star Editor Jerry Ausband was moderator at the meeting at Grover Rescue Squad Building which was open to the public.
