

Winthrop Writers Confab Manuscripts Due Nov. 1

ROCK HILL — Manuscripts are due Nov. 1 for the second annual Winthrop College Writers' Conference, to be held this year Nov. 20-22 at Joynes Center for Continuing Education.

Sponsored jointly by Joynes Center, the National Endowment for the Arts and the South Carolina Arts Commission, the seminar is open to both published writers and those who have not published. The main goal of the conference is to encourage writers in this geographic area to develop their literary talent.

Experts in all areas of writing will be on hand for consultation, and those submitting manuscripts in advance will be entitled to a private conference with an appropriate workshop leader. All participants will have the opportunity to work with an editor, agent or specialist in their field of interest.

Scheduled workshops include two sections of poetry, one section each in short story, children's fiction, novel and nonfiction writing.

Persons submitting manuscripts for any of the workshop sections should send them typed (doubled spaced) and clearly marked for the appropriate workshop to Joynes Center for Continuing Education, Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C. 29733. They will be returned at the conference.

Poetry manuscripts should be no more than six-onepage poems; novels should have a representative chapter and outline; two short stories may be submitted; three articles of nonfiction or a representative chapter and outline of a longer work; children's fiction should be limited to 2,500 words.

Fee for the conference is $35, and accommodations are available through Joynes Center. Those interested in attending should contact Joynes Center for Continuing Education by Nov. 14 to register.

Hours are from 9-12 a. m. and 1-5 p. m. each weekday, and the phone number is (803) 323-2196.
