Post 155 American Legionnaires turn golfers...

Jackson
Legion
Champion

Stoney Jackson won a scorecard playoff over John Howze to win Saturday's Otis D. Green Post 155 American Legion golf tournament at Kings Mountain Country Club.

Both Jackson and Howze shot even par 72s. In a scorecard comparison, both golfers were even until the fourth hole, when Jackson had a par and Howze a bogey.

Darrell Austin Jr. won the Callaway system honors with a net 72. Bill McGinnis won the honorary member division with an 82.

In closest to the hole competition on the par threes, Howze won on number seven, Charles Wilson on 14 and Ken Corn on 17. Jackson won longest drive honors on the 18th hole.

P. Whetstone had the highest score of the day, a 135 for 18 holes.

Awards were presented at a dinner-dance Saturday night which featured music by the "Blue Velvets."

Chairman Charles Hampton said that Post 155 is grateful to Kings Mountain Country Club and Rudy Hayes for use of the course, to all merchants who donated door prizes for the event and to all members of the Post who helped serve food during the games.

"We appreciate the support of the community in this annual effort," said Hampton.
