Hospital Loan Okayed

A $4.8 million loan from the Farmers Home Administration has been approved for a modernization and renovation program at Kings Mountain Hospital.

The project is expected to be advertised for bids the weekend of Nov. 8 and contract is expected to be awarded in December with groundbreaking scheduled thereafter.

The FHA loan will be paid back over a 30 year period from future hospital revenues, according to KM Hospital Administrator Grady Howard.

The new project will include a new two-story building that will house the first floor new radiology and emergency departments and business offices. The second floor level will be all patient floor. Thirty-five beds from the old wing will be moved to the new building.

The project does not provide for any additional beds to the existing 102 bed facility. Howard explained that part of the reason for the renovation and modernization program is that part of the existing hospital is 30 years old and is obsolete as far as patient safety codes go. "We feel like that this project if completely accomplished will put us in good shape into the 1990s or beyond," he said.
