John Beam Retires

John Beam of 112 Wells Street recently retired after 26 years of service with Lithium Corporation.

He was guest of honor at a banquet and office party upon his retirement as stockroom clerk at Lithium's Bessemer City plant. He is the first employee to retire with 26 years service at the North Carolina location.

He was presented an inscribed gold watch from the company at a dinner banquet held at the Holiday Inn, and was presented a gas-powered weed trimmer at the office party.

Beam and his wife, Estell, have two children, a son, Adrian, who is also employed at Lithium as a designer, and a daughter, Vanessa.
