Federal weapons cases against Kings Mountain High School teacher Kenny Blanton have been continued until the October 5 term of federal court in Charlotte.

Blanton is charged with possession of unregistered firearms, aiding and abetting the possession of unregistered firearm and aiding and abetting the transfer of an unregistered firearm.

Blanton and two other men charged - Robert Allen Patrikios of Apex and Michael E. Meszaros of Raleigh—all pleaded not guilty to the charges last month in federal court.

They were indicted August 3 by a federal grand jury after a lengthy investigation by officers of the Department of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

William Davis, Superintendent of Kings Mountain District Schools, said Blanton will continue to teach in the Industrial Cooperative Training program at KMHS, he said no action, if any, will be taken by the Board of Education until after Blanton's trial.

MAN CHARGED

Roy J. Carter of 3006 Crawford Street, Gastonia, has been charged with larceny of two weed eaters from Kings Mountain Farm Center. He has posted a $300 bond.

Over 2,200 Students Ride KM School Buses

the student. In the majority of reported accidents involving a school bus, the driver's attention was diverted by a disturbance created on the bus. We can't stress enough the importance of preaching good school bus safety.

The school bus driver of today is one of the best trained drivers on the road. Each one has spent two full days in class lecture and discussion and several hours of behind-the-wheel and observation time in addition to the regular license training provided in regular Driver Education program. A good balance of twenty-two adult and sixteen drivers perform their responsible task daily.

Bus drivers are currently receiving $3.50 per hour for their service. Any Kings Mountain citizen who is licensed to drive may enroll in the bus drivers training programs offered in Kings Mountain and may upon satisfactory completion of this program be assigned to a bus as either a regular driver or as a substitute. The next training class will be held at Kings Mountain Senior High School on September 22 and 24. Those interested should contact Blaine Froneberger at 739-5401.
