Dr. Barro Begins BC Practice

Dr. Lee Barro, a native of Nova Scotia, starts his medical practice in Bessemer City today, Wednesday, February 17. He is joining Dr. Bruce Wallace in family medical practice at Dr. Wallace's offices located at 119-B West Pennsylvania Avenue.

With the addition of another medical doctor to work with him, Dr. Wallace is now in a position to expand his office hours. The two doctors working together will receive appointments Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Hours for Saturdays will be from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

Now having Dr. Barro to work with him, their medical offices will open for the first time on a Saturday, February 20, 1982.

With the arrival of Dr. Barro to join Dr. Wallace, a long-time need for Bessemer City has been fulfilled. As the city's only medical doctor, Dr. Wallace has had to carry a heavy work load.

When Dr. Wallace started his practice here, Bessemer City was in desperate need of a doctor. After the late Dr. Robert L. Moore closed his medical offices here in August of 1972, the only practicing doctor for the Bessemer City area was the late Dr. Bert G. Lindsey who had a limited practice. Following Dr. Lindsey's death in August of 1979, Bessemer City was completely without a doctor until Dr. Wallace arrived from Nova Scotia that fall to open his offices here.

Dr. Wallace's medical practice has grown to require a full staff including a medical technician.
