City Losing Raleigh Tigers

Negotiations Are Made In Two Cities

The Raleigh Tigers have been granted permission to move their Negro American League team from Raleigh for the 1960 season. Arthur Dove, owner and operator of the team, has been negotiating with Charles A. Feeley, of the Polo Grounds in New York, Griffith Park and officials of Griffith Stadium in Washington, D. C.

The decision to move came about because of the tremendous turnout of fans and better offers from park officials in the two mentioned cities.

The youthful Tigers, who finished third in the N.A.L.'s final standings, made favorable impressions when they appeared in Washington and defeated the Detroit Stars before 6,000 fans and in New York when they again defeated the Detroit Stars before 4,700. The Tigers returned to New York on Labor Day and downed the All-Star team before 7,000 fans.

It was because of these turnouts and Mr. Dove's ability to produce a winning team, that he was approached with very good propositions to relocate his team franchise.

Within the next 2 years the Tigers' treasury will be enriched by $45,000 due to the sale of three players from this year's team. Al Roane, 19-year-old left-handed pitcher, who won 12 and lost 3 games.

"NO TOKEN INTEGRATION."

ALFORD
GREENSBORO — Segregationist Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark.) said last week "There is no such thing as token integration."
He told 250 members of the Guilford County unit of the North Carolina Defenders of States Rights that token integration "is like saying we can violate the ten commandments without sinning." He urged the group to "not destroy the public school of our nation in the crucible of racial integration."
Alford beat veteran Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) last November on a write-in ballot. Alford opposed integration of Little Rock High schools and campaigned on a segregation platform. He defeated Hays by almost 1,500 votes.

DON'T DEMONSTRATE, FAUBUS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Governor Orval Faubus asked Arkansas residents not to demonstrate against Evangelist Billy Graham if they happen to disagree with him on racial issues.
Graham was scheduled to preach in a football stadium last Saturday and Sunday nights here. No incidents were reported.
"In the present tense situation, with the people living under what many regard as the combined tyranny of the justice department and (Little Rock) Police Chief Gene Smith, any disagreement should not be carried to the point of demonstration," the governor said.

'Lover' Says He Shot The Wrong Man

John Gaines, 51, an ex-convict, is now confined to the Wake County Jail in the shooting of George Washington Ligon at 12:00 a.m. Tuesday morning. Ligon was allegedly shot when Gaines mistook him for the man who had stolen the affections of his girlfriend, Miss Annie Mae Bowler, 27.

The shooting occurred at 412 W. South Street and at the time, Gaines was being sought in connection with an earlier shooting spree.

Mr. Ligon is reported to be in critical condition at St. Agnes Hospital. A bullet entered his left eye, smashed through his skull, and emerged behind his left ear.
