Staggering Number Of Slayings Recorded:

Kills Hubby On Sidewalk

Boy, 12, Gets 35-Year Prison Term

Wife Waits In Grocery Store For Her Arrest

Wake County's violent death toll continued to soar to staggering heights this week as a Zebulon woman was lodged in jail Sunday charged with the sidewalk death of her husband Saturday night. He died enroute to St. Agnes Hospital here.

Mrs. Dorothy P. Holder was arrested by Zebulon officers. She is charged with shooting her husband, Needham Holder, 36, after a fracas which occurred about 10:00 p.m.

Mrs. Holder, who was booked at Wake County Jail, allegedly admitted shooting her husband when they had a "fuss" in which she said he came after her with a knife.

Some of the shooting was the sidewalk at the intersection of Randale Street and Barbee Avenue.

The weapon, reported to have been used in the killing, has not been found. However, a search is still on for it.

The woman was arrested in a grocery store nearby by police Chief Willie Hopkins and a domestic court officer.

She was quoted as saying that she had been "waiting" for officers to come for her.

Citizens Implore Tigers To Stay

As a result of the announcement by the Raleigh Tigers of their intentions to move their league franchise to another state, a group of local sports fans converged on Dove Music Co. team headquarters, to discuss, with Arthur Dove, the possibilities of keeping the team in Raleigh.

The group, comprising fans of the Tigers who never missed a home game, offered to campaign year-round to build up attendance at home games and to support the team in its efforts to get improved park facilities.

Their enthusiasm was so great that it was hard for Dove to explain to them that the decision to move had not been a hasty one but league members were reluctant to playing games in Raleigh where their share of the gate usually did not equal expenses.

Dove also stated that the league had voted its approval of the

Standing Room Only As Ligon's PTA Convenes

J. C. Washington, president of the J. W. Ligon Jr.-Sr. High Parent Teachers Association, welcomed approximately 450 parents and teachers Monday night as the first meeting got underway in the school's cafeteria.

There was standing room only, as again the parents of Ligon students indicated their desire to work with the school in an overall community effort to improve the educational processes. Last year the PTA received an award for the largest membership.

Mr. Washington's foresightedness had already placed him one step ahead in his guiding role. He had already appointed committee members during the summer and they were ready to report. Mrs. E. B. Coffield began the reporting of the different committees by reading a beautiful poem.

The committee reports included plans for helping the exceptional child and a budget of $1000.00 which was amended to include $100 for awards and scholarships in mathematics and science.

H. E. Brown, principal, at Ligon made the closing remarks and introduced the teachers.

Dr. Larkins Pens A New Book Here

Dr. John E. Larkins, consultant, North Carolina State Department of Public Welfare, has written another book to be released by the Irving-Swain Press on November 1.

"Patterns of Leadership Among Negroes" attempts to answer such questions as the following: (1) Who do the Negroes consider as their leaders? (2) What are the social characteristics of the leaders? (3) What do the leaders consider as the major problems confronting the members of their group?

SUSPECTED THIEF SHOT — Robbery suspect Ronald Baxter, 19, is brought out of New York's Pennsylvania station in a wheel chair late September 13th, after he was shot in the leg by a policeman in a bullet-studded chase through the station. The chase began in the nearby Greyhound Bus Terminal, where police went to pick up Baxter upon a tip given to a private guard that the youth was the one who had stolen a girl's wallet in the terminal's waiting room last week. It was reported that Baxter bolted when he saw the police arrive, and Patrolman James Mierisch took up the chase after spotting him and recognizing him from the description that had been radioed. Aged Man Held In Robbery Of Bank

NINETY SIX, S. C. — A man, who claimed to be 71-years-old but looked younger, was arrested Friday and charged with being the grotesquely-dressed gunman who robbed the Ninety Six branch of the State Bank and Trust Co. Thursday of $11,577.

All but $8 of the loot was recovered.

Nathaniel Jones, a native of Greenwood who recently returned there from Winfield, La., was taken before U. S. Commissioner James R. Hill at Abbeville Friday afternoon and pleaded guilty upon arraignment of a bank robbery charge.

Hill ordered Jones held under $20,000 bond, the amount recommended by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and he was lodged in the Greenwood County Jail. He will probably be removed to the county jail at Greenville within three days to await trial in U. S. District Court.

Roy K. Moore, agent in charge of the Charlotte, N. C., office of the FBI, said Jones was arrested about noon Friday at his home in Greenwood by an FBI agent Harold Fortson of the State Law Enforcement

Say Youth Confessed To Rape

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A 12-year-old boy Tuesday began serving a 35-year term at the state prison here for the rape of a seven-year-old white girl.

James Westmoreland of Nashville pleaded guilty to charges of rape in criminal court here Monday. Westmoreland told the jury he raped the girl at knife-point last June after he lured her into a vacant lot near her home.

The jury turned down a plea by Assistant Attorney General Howard Butler that Westmoreland be given a 25-year-sentence.

The jury deliberated about five minutes before increasing the penalty another 10 years. The sentence was described by courthouse observers as the stiffest given a youthful offender in more than a decade.

Rev. Rollins Interprets At Colleges

The Reverend J. Metz Rollins is visiting Shaw University and St. Augustine's College to interpret to students the 18th Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission which will bring together 3,000 students from 100 different countries around the world.

The Reverend Mr. Rollins will address students and faculties of Shaw and St. Augustine's on their respective campuses on the following schedule:

"Canned Heat" Drinkers Infest East Raleigh Area; Cops Step In

BY CHARLES E. JONES

"Canned Heat" drinkers in the East Raleigh area are now searching for new climes following several crackdowns by police.

Beary-eyed consumers of the "heat" better-known as Sterno, have been staggering out of a "jungle" near city property for the past three years. It sells for about 30 cents per can.

Officers of the Raleigh Police Department have recently been alerted and are making periodic checks on the area, located on property adjoining the now abandoned City Garbage headquarters, off E. Martin Street.

During the course of a day some 20 to 25 white drunks are seen entering "Hoboland" and remain for as long as six hours sometimes, physically unable to move, after drinking the "heat."

According to the instructions on cans of Sterno, it is to be used as a fuel only and, said one local storekeeper, "That's exactly what they use it for."

The area where the stuff is prepared is heavily wooded with very tall grass concealing a small clearing.

On one side of the cleared-off area, large bricks are placed together upon which the Sterno is probably placed. Scott indicated that many a can of Sterno has

Yancey's Students Studying

ASHEVILLE — Some 23 students from Yancey County, who refused to attend Negro schools to which they were assigned here, began classes Monday in a private school and a makeshift classroom at a church in Burnsville.

Four boys and three girls enrolled in the Allen High School, a private school formerly limited to girls. They began classes at the same time about 21 students began attending a makeshift school at the Griffith Chapel Methodist Church in Burnsville.

The school program is being sponsored by the Burnsville Edu-
