RACE BRAWLS REPORTED IN N. Y. STATE

stemmed from a young Negro woman biting an arm of a white woman.

Two officers patrolling a poorer section of town first called for local reinforcements when they happened upon a potential incident outside a restaurant.

The crowd of about 60 persons quickly grew with Negro groups lining up on one side and whites on the other. Olean police surrounded state troopers who arrived carrying clubs and tear gas. The crowd dispersed with this show of strength.

A number of fist-fights broke out, but apparently no one was hurt seriously, police said.

Two persons were arrested. Police identified them as Shirley Christian, taken in custody on a disorderly conduct charge, and a man identified as Douglas Gayton. He was arrested for interfering with police when he tried to prevent them from taking the young woman to headquarters.

procedures and demanded a roll call by states.

TAYLOR, 1,864 — JACKSON, 536

This resulted in the amazing upset tally of 1,864 for Taylor to 536 for Jackson.

There were rumors among strong Jackson supporters that the vote might be challenged, but the attitude of Dr. Jackson himself was not known. One Jackson backer told newsmen "Of course he's disappointed, wouldn't you be?"

Actually the challenge of Jackson's administration had come earlier in the week during a meeting of the board of directors when Dr. Martin Luther King raised a question about voting procedures.

When King took the floor another member of the board made the point that King was out of order.

Dr. Jackson who was presiding sustained the point of order, but allowed King to ask a question.

King then directed his question to Dr. Jackson. He asked the convention president whether he will see that the election is "fairly run."

JACKSON ADJOURNS MEETING

The question caused a mild uproar in the board meeting. A member moved, adjourned the meeting and Dr. Jackson declared the meeting adjourned without answering the question.

planning to discontinue use of the Hugh Morson School.

The news that the board is now considering the purchase of a site in the vicinity of Rochester Heights for a junior high school for all the Negro children in Raleigh warrens deep study by the Raleigh Citizens Association. Since this will have to be an all Negro school, the Negro citizens should have a say so as to where it shall be. The area under consideration may be a logical choice. It may be a very poor choice. At any rate, before the school board has made its decision, the Citizens Association should get busy and see what is being proposed any WHY.

AFRICA AS A CAREER

Students who will be graduating from college next June would do well to begin considering Africa as a place to "let down their buckets."

By the time commencement ceremonies begin next spring at least 15 new African nations will be standing with open arms to receive the aid and instruction young Negro college graduate can give to them.

There will openings available for all qualified persons. Teachers, doctors, lawyers, farmers, engineers, technicians, what ever you have to offer will be accepted. The pay will be good, the chances for advancement will be exceptionally good and you will have the thrill of knowing you are making a contribution where it is most vitally needed.

A few of our recent college trained men and women have seen this vision and have answered its call. But the need has in no ways been satisfied. In fact, with the coming independence of so many more African states, the need for this trained personnel is so great that a large percentage of all of those who will be graduating next spring, could be placed without filling the gap.

In view of the many advantages involved and the sure and certain chances of reward, may we urge college administrations, instructors and teachers to talk to their students about this important matter. The ancient cry "come over to Ethiopia and help us" has been changed to "come over to Africa and help us and yourself."

JACKIE SUSPENDED FROM WRITING JOB

The New York Post has suspended ex-baseball star, Jackie Robinson from its staff of feature writers because of Jackie's announcement that he will actively campaign this fall for the election of Vice President Nixon for president.

Jackie, a former active democrat, says he will campaign for Nixon's election because he feels that Nixon has been more aggressive on civil rights than Sen. Kennedy.

Robinson's column would have been discontinued, the Post's editor said, if Robinson had decided to campaign for Kennedy. The Post editor said his paper had no objection to members of its staff taking political sides, but that it did not tolerate them actively campaigning for their beliefs.

The New York Post is an independent afternoon daily. It generally has supported democratic candidates. The paper has not yet announced any preference for either Kennedy or Nixon.

The Indian children, Juanita Chance, 15, Emma Jean Chance, 13, and Lucie Maynard, 15, spent a half day at the school Friday but left after a conference with principal A. B. Johnson. They said they would return.

Parents ignored a directive in the show cause order issued Thursday by resident Judge Clawson Williams to withdraw the children from the school immediately.

Eugene Chance said "we're going to law them for our rights and keep on lawing them until our children are in that Dunn school. This fight has just started and it will not end until we win."

In The CAROLINIAN'S account of the Chatham County Fair last week certain references were made as to the beginning of the Fair. It has been reliably reported that Mrs. Mildred Bright Payton was the source from which the Fair started. We have also been informed that she has been the guiding figure since the organization was founded.

waited to see when they will be able to return to school. They were told to pack up their books and go home last Friday as school officials sought to avoid complying with an order from federal district Judge John Paul directing Galax High to admit eight Grayson Negroes.

The Grayson students attended Galax under a city-county contract. Paul ruled that if the Galax School Board accepted white students from the county, it would also have to accept Negro students.

The Galax School Board cancelled the contract Friday when it sent the Grayson students home.

The move served to heighten racial tension in the southwestern Virginia City. Six white youths and a Negro man were arrested in the Oldtown district of Grayson Sunday following an incident in which the Negro allegedly shot at the youth's automobile.

The whites were charged with disturbing the peace and the Negro was charged with felonious shooting. All were released on bond pending a hearing Sept. 22.
