Police Accuse Man Of Killing Wife, Then Going To Mortuary To Arrange For Funeral To "Take Care Of Her"

DENVER (ANP) — A 32-year-old Denver woman was shot to death last week and her estranged common-law husband who police said fired the shot, was arrested a few hours later making arrangements for her funeral at a mortuary.

Mrs. Evelyn Stuart was shot fatally in the chest in the kitchen of her apartment.

Her common-law husband, Sylvester Taylor, Jr., 32, was arrested at the Granberry Mortuary. "WANTED TO TAKE CARE OF HER"

Taylor denied the fatal shooting. Detective Capt. Clifford Stanley said Taylor told him he went to the mortuary to make funeral arrangements after he heard Mrs. Stuart was dead because he "wanted to take care of her."

Taylor had been released from Denver County jail the day before on $1,500 bond, pending his trial on a six-count burglary charge. Mrs. Stuart had given police the information that led to her estranged husband's arrest on the burglary charges and had been certified by Dist. Atty. Bert M. Keating as a key prosecution witness in his future trial.

Police said Taylor was identified as the probable killer by the woman's 8-year-old daughter, Gwendolyn, and an acquaintance of the suspect, Bernice McGaw.

Tar Heels To Vote In "Nickels For Know-How" Election September 30

BY L. D. BALDWIN
Franklin County Agricultural Agent

LOUISBURG—On September 30, the people of North Carolina will speak. What they will say, will determine the fate of a program that has helped farmers of North Carolina solve many difficult problems. "The Nickels for Know-how Referendum" will be held on September 30th. The issue before the people will be whether or not they want to continue the program of contributing to Agricultural Research and Extension during the next three years.

Nickels for Know-how is a program by which farm people contribute to Agricultural Research and Education in North Carolina. They contribute a nickel per ton on the feed and fertilizer they buy, to North Carolina State College to support programs in research, teaching and extension.

The plan was first adopted by a favorable vote on November 3, 1951. The plan was again approved in 1954 and 1957. According to law, the voters must approve the plan every 3 years. Therefore on Friday, September 30, the referendum will be held throughout North Carolina.

All persons are eligible to vote who use feed or fertilizer, their wives or husbands, members of NEA, PFA and 4-H Club members with crop and livestock projects.

The program has certainly helped farmers in Franklin County and the state solve many complex problems. Problems range from major tobacco production problems to minor problems in production of fruits, vegetables and livestock products.

In tobacco production, an expanded program initiated by the Extension Tobacco Disease Specialist and supported by the Nickel fund has resulted in a reduction of disease losses of some twenty million dollars in flue-cured tobacco. The number of growers plowing out stubbles soon after harvest increased from 15 to 60 percent.

There is no doubt about the value of irrigation in tobacco production. It is also proving its worth in many other crops. The Nickel fund provided necessary funds for employing an Extension Specialist to work in the field of irrigation.

In community and Area Development, over sixty-two thousand families have reaped rich dividends in the form of increased income and a more satisfying rural living. One county within the state has noted a 13 percent increase in farm income, which they attribute to the coordinated effort of people throughout their community. Yes, everybody has benefited from the Nickel fund one way or another.

In 1956 a special program was launched, and was referred to as "Produce a Square Meal Around the Home." During that year, over 40,000 Negro farm operators kept over one million chickens for supplying the home with poultry and eggs. From 1955 to 1958, the number of Negro farmers producing broilers for commercial purpose rose from 71 to 160 with an average size flock of 1000 to 3000 birds. This is only a part of the progress made.
