Convention To Guilford Oct. 13-16

BY J. B. HARREN
GREENSBORO—The 17th Annual N. C. NAACP Conference will convene here October 13-16 with "Political Freedom of the Negro in Tarheelia" as the theme. The Hayes-Taylor YMCA, 1101 East Market Street, is convention headquarters and the opening Mass Meeting will be in the City auditorium on Friday night with NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins of New York as speaker.

The closing address on Sunday afternoon will be by noted former baseballer Jackie Robinson whose militancy as well as calmness has inspired thousands to do more in the fight to obtain complete equality for all America.

Meeting here where the "Sit-In Protest" started in Tarheelia last winter, ("sit-ins" originally started in Oklahoma City) the convention will be paying a special tribute to the courageous college and high school students, who, with the aid of many adults, sparked the movement which has echoed over the nation and sent ripples over the world to other races as they sought their freedom.

Host to the convention will be the Greensboro NAACP chapter in which N. C. NAACP Conference treasurer Newton I. Gregg has been an important worker. Gregg, an insurance executive, has received national acclaim for his superb handling of the state conference's finance over the past 15 years.

State president Kelly M. Alexander, Charlotte, has led the state conference since 1949, during which time he has attained respect and influence over the nation. Currently, Alexander is co-chairman of the Southwide Registration and Voting Committee seeking to

Claimed By Heart Attack:

Rescued From Fire, Dies

Invalid, 65, Is Stricken After Rescue

WHITEVILLE — Mrs. Fannie Meares, a 65-year-old Thomasboro woman, an invalid for five years, died of a heart attack last weekend after being removed from her burning home.

Her husband, Albert L. Meares, awoke to discover a fire in a back room of the wooden frame house. He in turn awakened their son and together, they removed the woman and her sister from the house.

While being taken to a neighbor's house some distance away, Mrs. Meares suffered the fatal attack, according to Brunswick County Coroner Lowell Bennett.

Funeral services were conducted last Friday afternoon.

Thomasboro is located near Whiteville.

Mrs. Meares was funeralized at the Beulah Baptist Church near

Charges In Cops' Death Are Changed

GOLDSBORO — Charlie N. Brown, 50, with a record of liquor arrests, was charged with manslaughter last week as a result of the deaths Monday night of two policemen during a chase.

State Highway Patrol Sgt. T. W. Fearing said Brown is being held without bond. The defendant denied being involv-

200 Meet At Goldsboro To Discuss Employment Moves

GOLDSBORO—In keeping with the world-wide sentiment of better living, local citizens have busied themselves about conditions of employment and as a result more than 200 met here recently.

They reviewed the gains and losses during the past year. They were mindful of the fact that picketing began March 21st and that the stores reluctantly Sept. 2.

They were happy over the fact that there was no violence in the city and that it was the only town to gain the goal, without demonstrations inside the places of businesses.

Mrs. Levi Hamilton outlined some of the future objectives. Employment in the Wayne Memorial Hospital was discussed and the refusal to hire Negro nurses. It was decided that a peaceful approach to the matter would get the desired results. It is expected that the NAACP will be asked to aid the movement.

The Industrial Center, along with other state-supported agencies were listed as targets of the group. The drive could extend to the State Hospital. It has long since been deplored that a Negro institution was manned by white persons.

There are those who feel that competent Negroes can be found to man both the hospital and the O'Berry Training School. It was also noted that there are segregated dining rooms, for employees, at the hospital, based on color.

Kinston's councilwoman, Mrs. Hannibal, was the principal speaker. She said that the white man feared the rising power of the new Negro, looming on the horizon. "The United States knows the symptoms of sickness are present—racial hatred—it does not know how to cure them," said the speaker.

She pointed to the young Negro as a fearless fighter and that they should be pushed by enlightened

"Take my yoke upon you, learn of me."

WHO SPEAKS FOR US?

Several days ago, a Raleigh newspaper spoke out editorially against a proposal to build a new senior high school and a new junior high school on the same piece of land. Because of geographical location, these proposed schools will always remain largely white.

The crux of the opposition voiced by this editorial was stated thusly, "One of the chief vestiges of the whole junior high school idea is the separation of children at this critical time in their lives when the too little and the too big should not be mixed up." "If the two high schools though in separate buildings are on the same piece ground, such separation will be difficult."

Now in connection with this serious matter, some things are plainly obvious. One is the real need for the complete separation of these children. Another is the complete indifference of our white friends for the application of this need for

Donate $200 To Family For Moving

DUNN—It was confirmed Monday by the principal of the Mary Stewart School that dark-skinned seven-year-old, Edna Sue Hump, and her family have left Harnett County. The child was refused entry to the school last week because of her skin color. She is listed as white.

The exit came with community financial support, after several days of uneasiness in the community just beyond this town.

$200 was raised, according to a spokesman to provide the family transportation back to Georgia. The mother of the girl said last week that the family ran out of money as they reached Harnett County and settled here for that reason.

Mrs. Hump said: "My husband is a construction worker and lost his job and we just rambled and this is where we got to."

Raleigh School Board Hears Ralph Campbell

Ralph Campbell, Sr., executive secretary and membership secretary of the local NAACP branch, appeared before the Raleigh School Board at its September meeting Tuesday and requested the Board to reassign two of his children to the Hugh Morson Junior High School, which is attended now solely by white students.

No action on Campbell's request was taken by the Board, which contended that Campbell had not filled out the proper forms. After receiving the forms, Campbell will have five days to ask for a hearing.

A younger son, William Campbell, 7, was admitted to Murphree Elementary School two weeks ago and became the first Negro to attend a white public school in Raleigh's history. At the same time the Board denied the first request that the older Campbell children, Mildred and Ralph, Jr., be admitted to Hugh Morson. The reason given was that the school was overcrowded.

Campbell, a Post Office Department mechanic here, said: "The schools are supported by the taxpayers. I don't feel the Board ought to assign children to segregated schools.

"Would the superintendent have assigned a white child living in a white home next to Ligon High

At The U. N.: Colored Nations Seated

NEW YORK (AP)—In fifteen years, the United Nations has grown from its original number of member nations, 51, to a total of 86. Last week, the United Nations General Assembly, opening its 15th session, had for its first order of business, the formal admission of 13 black nations and one Mediterranean country into membership.

All African Nations
The new members, all in Africa, are the two Congos—aptly designated by the UN Secretary, to avoid confusion, as Congo (Leopoldville) and Congo (Brazzaville)—the Republics of Cameroun, Togo, Malagasy (formerly Madagascar), Senegal, Dahomey, Niger, Volta (Upper Volta), Ivory Coast, Chad and Central African. The other member is the island of Cyprus.

The number of new members should have been 15, but induction of the Federation of Mali (composed of Senegal and Sudan), was withheld pending a decision of the legality of Senegal's secession from the federation last month. Senegal pulled out because of what it charged was an attempt by Sudan leaders to relegate the Senegal to a position of subservience to Sudan in the federation.

Challenged by Sudan Leaders
The secession was challenged by Sudan leaders who held that the
