An Air Force Staff Sergeant has the interesting occupation of reporting the news for the well-known service newspaper, "Pacific Stars and Stripes."

Stationed in Taipei Taiwan (Formosa), Sgt. Junius Griffin is Taiwan Bureau Chief of Stars and Stripes.

Difficulties in gathering news can be likened to those of American foreign correspondents. He has to rely heavily upon his background to interpret the importance of what has happened because of the distance of his readers. They are located in four countries and three major islands. From as far south as Guam to as far north as Korea.

Sgt. Griffin projects an image of today's progressive Negro. Don't miss his story next issue.
