Foreign Women To Study At A&T Under Contract With ICA

GREENSBORO — A group of young women from four countries which have recently gained independence arrived in Greensboro last week to study at A&T College this fall.

The party of 11 which touched down at the Greensboro-High Point Airport in the early afternoon on Tuesday, Sept. 5, appeared genuinely happy over the opportunity of studying in America and arriving at their new home for the next several months. They have been in Washington, D. C. for the past three weeks, participating in a orientation program conducted at the United States Department of Agriculture.

The group will pursue special programs, chiefly in home economics, under a contract agreement between the International Cooperation Administration in Washington, D. C., and A&T College.

Four of the girls from Tanganyika, Africa, Freda Urasa Louise Fanuel, Mary Mackeja and Judith Jumaa, will remain here for just six months. They will take courses in community development.

The others will pursue programs leading to degrees in home economics. Included in this group are: Hilda Tamakloe, Ghana; Malissa McCauley, Lotitia Robertson and Frances Abraham, Liberia, all of Africa and Mrs. Enid Lawrence, Mrs. Herma Aris and Mrs. Pearl Cousins, all of Jamaica of the Indies.

The visiting students will be taught courses in the A&T Department of Home Economics, headed by Mrs. Clara S. Evans and in the A&T College Extension Service in which Mrs. M. M. Brown is assistant State home demonstration agent.

The group will operate under the supervision of Miss Myrtle Smith, instructor in home economics education at A&T and technical advisor to the young women.

On Nurses: ANA Gives Interesting Information

NEW YORK CITY (ANP) — The term "shortage of nurses" has become "almost proverbial" tending to overemphasize numbers at the expense of other factors involved in the problem, according to the 1961 edition of "Facts About Nursing," just published by the American Nurses' Association, 10 Columbus Circle, New York, New York.

Most measures of need are based on ratios of personnel to notes, rather than on the number and kinds of personnel patients and others requiring which best meet the needs of health care. Very little research has been done on that qualitative aspect of nursing care.

Numbers of professional nurses are increasing proportionately much faster than the population. The estimated 504,000 professional nurses employed in the United States in 1960 reflect an increase over the past ten years almost double that of the increase in population. This total includes at least 90,000 nurses who are working only part time.

Facts suggests that the return of inactive nurses to the profession, either full or part time, may be one partial solution to the so-called shortage. Other solutions are "better and perhaps different utilization of nursing personnel and improvement of educational preparation" as well as continued efforts to attract qualified young people into the field.

Though the majority of nursing students still receive their basic preparation in hospital schools of nursing, there has been a steady rise in the number receiving basic education. Graduate nurse students granted academic degrees in nursing in 1960 totalled 3,723 compared to 2,317 in 1951.

At present, the publication states, less than two percent of employed professional nurses have master's degrees and only about seven percent have baccalaureate degrees.

MAJORITY ARE MARRIED

About percent of registered nurses are women, and 54 percent of them are less than 40 years old, the publication reports. The majority are married, only about 31 percent are single.

At Bennett:

Dr. Player Announces New Grant

GREENSBORO — Dr. Willa B. Player, president of Bennett College, announced this week that the Burlington Industries Foundation through its Aid to Education Program has made a grant of around $20,000 to bring to $95,000 the total funds needed by Bennett to operate a Saturday School for selected high school juniors and seniors over a three-year period.

Earlier, the Carnegie Corporation of New York announced a $75,000 grant to Bennett for its Saturday School Adventure which is described as a "new dimension" in education.

Drive Safely!!

Dallas Follows Atlanta

DALLAS (ANP) — Eight small Negro children last week were calmly and peacefully enrolled in what was the nation's largest segregated public school district, the Dallas public schools.

Dallas followed Atlanta and accepted, without incident, ten Negro girls, including two sets of twins, and eight Negro boys.

As though it was an everyday occurrence, the boys and girls, mostly six years old, walked calmly into eight white elementary schools in districts ranging economically from wealthy to poor, clutching parents with one hand and lunch boxes with the other.

There were no crowds and no disorder, only a few curious neighborhood residents peered from windows and over fences as the children entered.

However, squads of specially trained police commanded by captains and inspectors were stationed at each school as a precautionary measure.

"The crisis has passed definitely," Dr. W. T. White, school superintendent, said.

Under federal court orders, Dallas is integrating by a stair-step plan. Only the first grade was admitted for this year. The second grade will be integrated next year, and so on until all 12 grades are integrated.

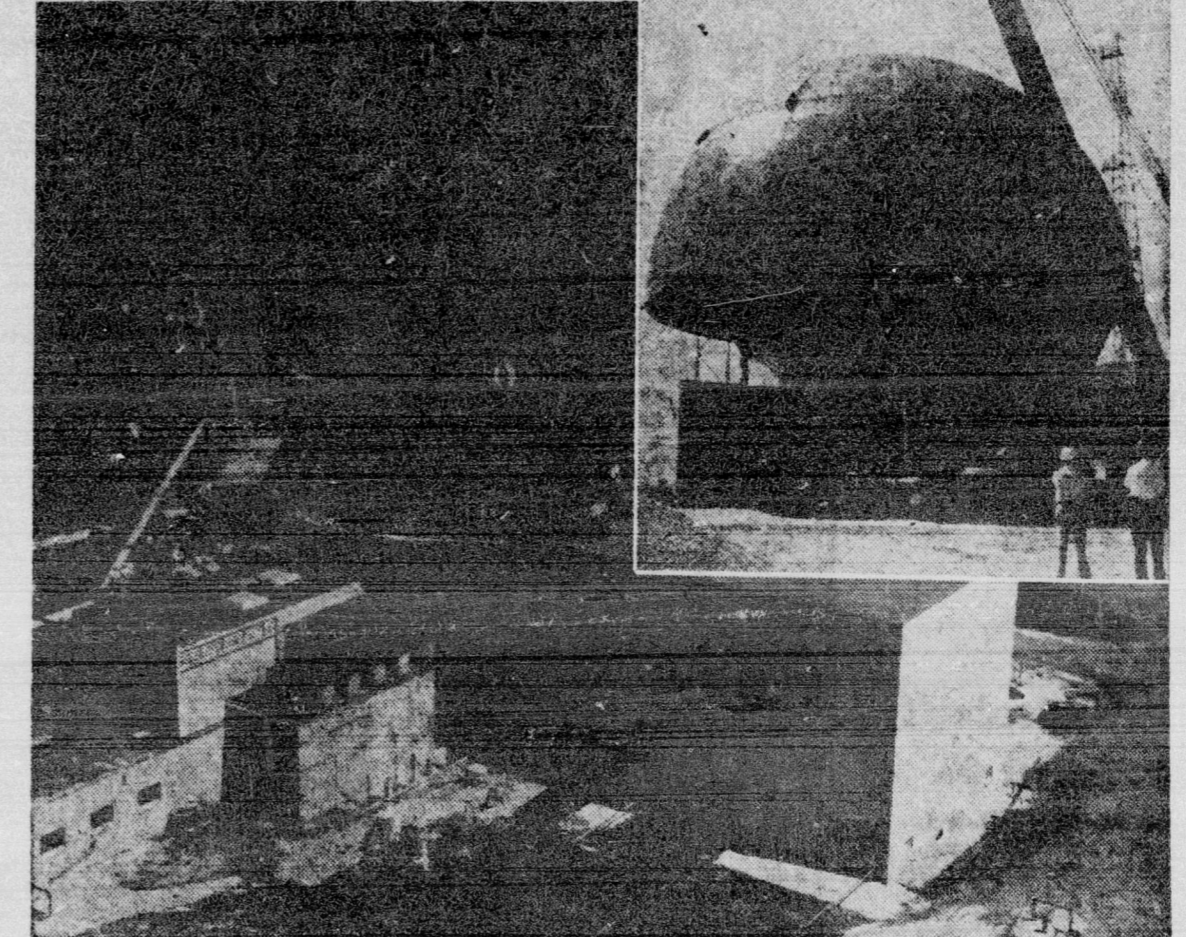

Yes, We All Talk

HIGH-PITCHED VOICE

QUESTION: Whenever I get into arguments, my voice tends to become too high pitched and unpleasant. What must I do to correct this bad habit?—H.L.

ANSWER: I suggest that you bring your voice down to a lower pitch. Since you tend to send your voice up in arguments, I suggest that you refrain from arguments, or turn off some of the heat in your arguments.

CLOSING THE LID—A 65-ton steel dome is hoisted into place (right) to form a vapor-tight cap for the Carolina Virginia Nuclear Power Associates' reactor at Parr, South Carolina. Once in place (below), the cap of quarter-inch steel will be covered with two feet of reinforced concrete. Side walls of similar strength will make the building radiation-proof. Heat from the uranium-fired reactor will produce steam for the otherwise conventional generation of electricity. First nuclear power plant in the Southeast, the unit is scheduled to "go critical" in 1962. The Parr facility is a $29,000,000 research and development venture of Carolina Power & Light, South Carolina Electric & Gas, Duke Power and Virginia Electric and Power companies.

Keep yourself under control at all times, and then you can control your voice. If you live near a speech and hearing clinic, I suggest that you seek the help that a clinic can give.
