The wounded, kidnaped girl, Ruby Brandon was with the wanted man, Sam Evans when two deputies nabbed him after he allegedly broke into a tenant house to steal food and clothing.

The girl said Evans hit her with a shotgun, threatened to kill her and forced her to have intimate relations with him during their four days of hiding out, according to Person County Sheriff C. C. Holeman.

Holeman said he had charged Evans with assault with a deadly weapon in the shooting of the girl and that other charges would be brought.

NAACP Strategy Gains Postponement, Oct. 6

ATLANTA (ANP)—A fast, strategic move by the NAACP last week saved the life of a 15-year-old Monticello (Ga.) boy scheduled to die in the electric chair Friday (Sept. 22) for killing a 70-year-old white farmer.

The postponement followed a motion filed by the NAACP for a new trial which will be held on October 6. The Association's motion was grounded on an on-the-spot investigation which revealed that:

1. No Negro has served on a jury in Jackson County, where the crime was committed and trial held, for more than 40 years.
2. The court-appointed attorney failed to raise pertinent constitutional issues.
3. There is a possibility that persons other than the young boy were involved in the murder.

The slaying took place in Monticello, Ga., following a quarrel last June between Preston Cobb and Frank Coleman Dumas, the white farmer.

Negro pickets carrying placards which signified their disapproval of the racial stands which several Southern Governors have taken in their respective states.

The sign directed at Gov. Sanford read, "Remember Monroe." This obviously had reference to the recent racial disturbances in Monroe, N. C. which ended with Robert Williams, militant Monroe Negro, escaping with a fugitive from justice tag hanging over his head.

Other placards carried by the pickets were directed toward the state civil rights practices in South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and the other southern states.

ODDS-ENDS BY ROBERT G. SHEPARD

"You will keep him in perfect peace whose mind is steadfast on Thee."

SENSIBLE AND REALISTIC
The recent request of the Civil Rights Commission for faster action on the school desegregation problem is both sensible and realistic.

Almost 8 years have gone by since the U. S. Supreme Court said that segregation in the public schools was unconstitutional and called for its end. Yet, in spite of that ruling, only a fragment of this segregation has been ended.

The idea now proposed by the rights commission that each state where school segregation exists submit a desegregation plan to the federal courts within 6 months will certainly mean an eventual end of this un-American evil. It is noteworthy that the commission in this new approach is recognizing and calling for an end to school segregation in schools in the North, South, East and West. This is noteworthy because this violent and undemocratic practice in one form or another is carried on in every region in this country.

It is to be hoped and prayed for that the Congress will speedily a-
