New Kind Of Sit-In Proposed At College

Libraries Of Colleges Are Cited

GREENSBORO—Another sort of "sit-in" by college students was urged last week at A&T College. A college professor told the audience that new dimensions for democracy will require more and longer "non-violent sit-ins" in the college libraries.

The speaker was Dr. Leroy T. Walker, professor of health and physical education at North Carolina College, Durham, and president of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association. He was delivering on Tuesday, Nov. 14, the main address at the annual observance of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity Achievement Week. The program was sponsored by the Mu Psi undergraduate chapter at A&T.

Speaking from the subject, "The Exodus From The Cult of Mediocrity," he developed his presentation around the theme of the 1961 Achievement Week Observance, "New Dimensions For Democracy."

He warned the audience that rapidly changing times indicate new and unexpected extensions of democracy and "those of us who intend to cope with the new extensions of democracy must revamp our attitudes and approaches."

The speaker urged a renewed

Rights Report Given

GREENSBORO—Some North Carolina Negroes have been denied equal protection of the laws with regards to medical care, the State Advisory Committee on Civil Rights said last week.

A report prepared on a special subcommittee added, however, that the substantial difference in the health of whites and non-whites is caused by many factors, including education, employment income and housing, and it would be incorrect to say it was "caused solely or even primarily by discrimination in our health laws or their applications."

The subcommittee included fourteen doctors of medicine, two hospital administrators, two dentists, two nurses, two hospital insurance executives, one sociologist and one lawyer. Dr. M. D. Bethel directed the study.

The report was submitted to the State Advisory Committee, of which J. McNeill Smith, Greensboro attorney, is chairman. It will be forwarded to the U. S. Commission of Civil Rights.

Campbell Challenges NAACP Here

President Ralph Campbell, local NAACP leader, brought the final meeting to a close with the most challenging speech that he has ever delivered, Sunday, at Fayetteville Street Baptist Church.

The speaker said that the time had come when Raleigh Negroes must go all out for equal job opportunities. He was highly critical of the present policy and said, "Even though we have had some success, through the efforts of Mrs. John White and her Labor and Industry Committee, we must

RALEIGH MAN KILLED

Argument Leads To Slaying

Josephus Jolly, 35, of 1201 South Bloodworth Street was shot and killed Friday night.

Being held in the shooting is James Theodore Herndon, 46, of 305 Bragg Street. He is charged with murder.

Detective E. W. Rhodes said the shooting which occurred at 1106 Spaulding Street about 6:30 p.m. followed an argument. Rhodes said Jolly was shot five times with a .32 caliber pistol.

Herndon was picked up by officers Rudolph Perry and H. P. Lee in the 11 block of Bloodworth St. a short time after the slaying.

Rhodes quoted Herndon as saying the shooting took place at the home of Eloise M. James. Herndon told officers he tried to break up a fight between the victim and a third party, who has not been identified.

New Orleans Women Continue Their Picketing After One Year

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Twelve black clad white women made a demonstration at William Frantz School, last week, when they marched in front of the building, carrying banners deploring the integration of the school, one year ago.

It is to be remembered that much was said and done to keep the schools of this Port City segregated and it was after much litigation that the doors were opened and the William Frantz School was one of the schools that Negroes had attended, along with white children.

The fact that the women attempted to turn the clock of integration back one year made no imprint on the integration and they like most mourners, over the dead, marched in vain.

It is believed that the dead body

ODDS-ENDS

BY ROBERT G. SHEPARD

"Fear not o'land, be glad and rejoice."

LET US GIVE THANKS

In the midst of confusions, frustrations, fear and anxiety, it is well for us to pause and give thanks to the Almighty God, our Creator, our Father in whom we live and have our being.

The strife and cares of present-day living would tend to becloud the love, the supply and the mercy which are bestowed upon us each day by a loving Father. Too often, we allow ourselves to be so mesmerized by the subtle enchantments of materiality, that we fail to see the goodness of God. We forget to express gratitude for the mercy, grace and love by which we live. We forget many of the blessings God is ready to bestow upon us because, in our haste and selfish cravings for more wealth we forget to express gratitude for the things we already have.

When the psalmist said, "O that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His

They have been practicing, prancing and poising for the first, big event of their lives. They have selected gowns of beauty, makeup or distinction and marshals of valor.

The members of the local chapter have left no stone unturned to make this one of the best in 24

All-Negro Operation Set In N. C.

MOORESVILLE—Templon Spinning Mills and Chemspun Yarns, Limited, have announced plans to open an all-Negro industrial operation here.

It was believed that such a project would be the first time an industrial concern has opened with all Negro laborers.

Rufus Dallon, manager of the twin firms, said the plant here was scheduled for operation by the spring of 1962 and that it would complement the production of the other two mills.

Dallon said this week that the renovated Syntax building here, where the new plant will be located, would employ 50 to 75 Negroes. He noted that the firm would employ white foremen and a white plant superintendent, at least at first.

The manager said that only high school graduates would be considered and should apply through the North Carolina Employment Commission.
