Williams, Machen Put On Dull Bout

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — If either Eddie Machen or Cleveland Williams hopes to gain a title Patterson-Sonny Liston fight in September, he can forget it.

The 2 heavyweights, ranked No. 2 and 3, respectively, put on a sorry spectacle here last week, as they "waltz to a dull draw" in their highly-publicized 10 round bout before a capacity crowd of 10,000 in Sam Houston Coliseum.

The two fighters grabbed and held for the greater part of the evening, and the only semblance of a knockdown came in the eighth round when Williams, weighing 211 1/2 pounds to Machen's 198, staggered Eddie with a left hook.

Otherwise, the two men battled at close quarters with no noticeable damage. To some extent, the affair looked more like a love match than a boxing bout, as they continued to wrap their arms around each other.

Two officials scored the fight a draw, while the other judge gave Williams the edge, 96 points to 94. It went into the record as a 10-round draw. A chorus of boos greeted the decision when it was announced.

The winner of the Machen-Williams fight was supposed to challenge the Patterson-Liston victor. However, after Machen and Williams fought their dull bout, there was little talk of a title fight for either.

Girl Scouts List Past Achievements

BY CAROLYN ROGERS
Girl Scout Troop 152 under the guidance of Mrs. Herman Taylor and Mrs. Jesse Branche has put forth more than an effort in carrying out their activities.

They started by first having members administer their aid at nurseries in order to show their services to the community.

Another one of the most inspirational services was the Deaf and Blind Social held in the school's gymnasium. The scouts swung for a while with a number of Rhythm Kids present. The also gave themselves a party in Lawyer Taylor's home with their escorts present.

A few weeks ago the scouts went out to Mr. and Mrs. Valentino Hamlin's home where the girls learned of things they would do in case of emergencies.

During this same week the girls also had a party at the Girl Scout office with an Hawaiian atmosphere twirling the party. Now at the very present these girls have done so much in the field of social and service affairs are now selling flower bulbs so they can raise money for their troop.

Those listed activities and achievements are only a few of the things planned because these girls have many prospective achievements planned for the future.

The number of cows in the U. S. herd artificially has climbed from 1,070 in 1939 to 7.3 million by 1961.

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

You are poring over the facts that have been collected on a certain puzzling case in your city. It seems that in a deserted part of town, at about 2:00 A. M. of a certain morning ten days ago, four hoodlums became involved in a heated argument during the course of which one of the men killed one of the others. The three survivors, of course, fled the scene immediately after the fatal shot was fired, but they were finally traced by the police and brought into headquarters. Unfortunately, an innocent man, not in the crowd, was drawn in with them.

You also have the following information regarding these men. Tucker, who had just met the murdered man and knew he was head of a gang, wouldn't dare to inform on the killer. Ridgely, who hates the killer whom he has known for the past three years, is a good friend of Fergus and a cousin of the victim, Harrison, who stood behind the killer when the fatal shot was fired, was certain Tucker did it. Jackson, who was in a town twelve miles away with his girl the evening of the murder and hasn't seen Ridgely for two years, was arrested in your city two days after the killing. Fergus, the leader of a powerful gang of hoodlums and a former convict who broke his parole, was very much sought after by the police.

Now, after weighing all these facts, can you determine just who the killer was, who the victim was, and who the innocent man was?

SOLUTION
Jackson killed Fergus, and Ridgely was not a member of the crowd. Tucker could not be the killer since he had just met the victim, and he could not be the victim because "he wouldn't dare to inform on the killer." If he had been the victim, he would have been unable to inform. Ridgely is the only one who was not present, since there is nothing to indicate that he was. Harrison was neither killer nor victim since he stood behind the killer when he fired the fatal shot. Although Jackson was in a town twelve miles away that evening, he could easily have returned and committed the murder, and the murder was committed two hours after midnight. Fergus must have been the victim because Jackson is clearly the killer (since he was caught two days later), and Tucker and Harrison are obviously alive.
