VANDALS STRIKE LOCKHART

CHANGES MIND AGAIN — Atlanta: Lester Maddox holds up a "Pickrick Drumstick" — "the last one," he said, after he announced at a news conference here Sunday, Feb. 7, the closing "for good" of his restaurant. Maddox closed the cafeteria when a Negro man attempted to enter during the noon lunch hour. He served newsmen the remaining chicken that had been cooked prior to the Negro's appearance. Lester Maddox Declares, "I'm Closing For Good"

ATLANTA (NPI)—Lester Maddox, the diehard segregationist restaurateur who has been engaged in a running battle with the Federal District Court and Negroes over his insistence upon not serving Negroes and civil rights workers in his establishment, can't seem to make up his mind what to do.

Last Saturday, Maddox announced he had capitulated to the court edict that he must serve all comers under pain of a $200 a day fine for as long as he resisted. At this time, his wife and all of the customers in the place "broke down and cried like babies."

However, Sunday, the bitter anti-integrationist did a turn-about and announced he was shutting his establishment for good, because he just couldn't abide by the decision.

Through he admits to being

Heard In Greenville Recently

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Rev. J. Oscar McCloud, former pastor of the Davis Street United Presbyterian Church here, now living in Atlanta, Ga., gave the following message in Greenville, Mississippi recently. His work area now extends over 17 Southern States.

GREENVILLE, Miss.—The Rev. J. Oscar McCloud is now Field Representative, Board of Christian Education, Office of Church and Society, United Presbyterian Church U. S. A.

For several days now I have been in Greenville, Miss., the heart of the Mississippi Delta, where the National Council of Churches is carrying on what is known as the Delta Ministry. "The Delta Ministry" (about which there has been so much talk and reaction among white Southerners whose denominations are members of the National Council of Churches) "is a long term project sponsored by the National Council of Churches for the purpose of working with

Let Your Conscience Be Your Guide

(An Editorial)

People with political aspirations who claim they want to represent the people have a sorry way of showing it at times. We have no quibble with anyone who offers for office. This is an American privilege. But we take a firm stand on the need for not just representing all the people. Raleigh needs some candidates who will represent the interest of the Negro segment along with the interest of Raleigh generally.

It is all right for the political minded to preach a political sermon about representing all the people in order to gather as many votes from white people as possible for their self aggrandisement. But the fact still is with us that the main reason the general public expects a Negro to run for office is that he or she would be concerned with the problems directly affecting us . . . not the political future of Mr. and Mrs. politician.

One big question confronting a huge residential area here is how will hundreds of residents who stand to lose the titles to their homes under the redevelopment program fare when their section is ravished? The little money obtained from the city and Federal government will not replace home ownership. Today's market has gone three to four times higher than when many of these people bought their homes. Few are young people, educated to demand the high dollar because of their training. Their savings is small, their homes are moderate and their voices are many times unheard by their so-called leaders or anyone else.

This predicament of our people in blighted areas, along with many other needed areas of interest especially training and economic need attention by people who are concerned about the welfare of these Raleigh citizens. With the May Primary, some three months in the future, it is reasonable to ask the public to submit publicly a list of suggested candidates.

If we are as interested in politics as our registration shows and our efforts in the past few years would denote certainly, we

Landmark Sold To Brothers

BY CHARLES R. JONES

The ownership of the Original Arcade building, 122 E. Hargett Street, built by the late Calvin E. Lightner forty-three years ago, changed hands Monday with the signing of ownership over to two white Garner brothers.

It was sold because the people who had shown the greatest interest and participated in the organization had retired.

More than $100,000 was involved in the deal, which saw Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Yeagren, of Loop Road, Garner, become the owners.

Mrs. Lucy F. James, president-treasurer of the executive committee of the Home Ekers, Inc.; Mrs. Diana S. Dent, vice-president; Mrs. Bernice Johnson, secretary; and Mrs. Alberta Livingston, asst. secretary, witnessed the assets of 40 Home economists sold to the Yeagrens.

The executive group reportedly worked in vain to get Negro groups to hold and modernize the old structure, built by Mr. Lightner.

In an interview with Mr. Yeagren, we were informed

The meat was valued at $400, according to Detective Captain Robert E. Goodwin.

Two of the eight indicted, Curran and Roseman, have not yet been arrested. Solicitor W. G. (Buck) Ransdell stated.

CHESTER COLLINS

Chester Collins, a poetry-reading, card-playing, hatchet-wielding prison escapee from Florida, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives." An intensive nationwide search is under way for Collins, who escaped from the Florida State Prison Camp at Fort Pierce, Florida, on June 19, 1957, after serving four months of a 10-year sentence following his conviction for assault to commit murder. Dave Watson, Raleigh FBI agent, came into The CAROLINIAN office Monday with the story.

Collins is being sought by the FBI on the basis of a Federal warrant issued August 12, 1957, at West Palm Beach, Florida, charging him with unlawful interstate flight to avoid confinement after conviction for the crime of attempted murder.

This vicious prison escapee, who is known to be interested in dream reading, poetry, the English language and crooked card games, was arrested by the Winter Haven, Florida, Police Department on December 8, 1956, following his brutal attack with a razor-sharp hatchet on his girl friend and an unsuspecting female school teacher who was in her company.

Following a quarrel with his girl friend at a dance the previous evening, Collins was ejected from the dance hall but before leaving swore he would kill the woman and her female companions. At about 3 a. m. the following day, he broke into the woman's residence and committed his bloody hatchet assault.

The disclosure came as the young widow made headlines across the nation over her reported engagement to a 20-year-old guitarist—a protégé of her late husband.
