Atty. Gen. Warns Of Summer Race Strife

Slums, Jobs, Schools Are Considered

NEW YORK -- U. S. Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach warned Monday that racial violence could flare up "in any one or more of 25 or 30 cities this summer."
In an interview appearing in the current issue of a national magazine, Katzenbach said that such violence would probably occur unless communities "face up to their slums," try to solve their school problems and attempt to find jobs for unemployed young people.
With civil-rights groups due in Mississippi again this summer, Katzenbach said that things "will not be tremendously different than last summer."
He commented:
"There will be phony arrests and violence--blowing up a church, beating up a guy. All this can happen. It depends on the pressure we and state (See WARNS OF, Page 2)

Lucian Banks, Heavyweight, Dies After Bout

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)--The boxing world was stunned last week by the death of one of its promising young stars, Lucian (Sonny) Banks, one of the few fighters ever to put heavyweight Champion Cassius (Muhammad Ali) Clay on the canvas.
Banks, a 24-year-old heavyweight from Detroit, was knocked out by Lewis Martin, Philadelphia, in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-rounder last week.
He was unconscious for about 20 minutes. He was rushed to Presbyterian hospital, where he again lapsed into unconsciousness.
Dr. Robert S. Andre, a local heart surgeon, operated to remove a blood clot. However, Banks succumbed to the injuries early Thursday, after (See BOXER DIES, Page 2)

'Didn't Mean To Shoot Her,' Mate Says

CHICAGO (UPI) -- An argument with her husband over alleged refusal to prepare dinner led to the slaying last week of a popular woman minister.
Her death was the Rev. Mrs. Esther Leighton, 45 (53-52 Prairie), assistant pastor of Christ Unity Temple.
Her 32-year-old husband, Horace, told police he had no intention of shooting his wife, but that she was struck in the neck when the gun he was holding during an argument discharged accidentally.
He was charged with murder and faces a court hearing on June 8.
Police said Leighton, an insurance counselor, admitted arguing with his wife over her refusal to prepare dinner. The Leightons were married a little over a year ago.
The minister's brother, William Reed, 34, who rented a room in their apartment, disarmed the accused man as he (See HUBBY KILLS, Page 2)

Winters To Nebraska As RSM Guest

Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara, has personally invited Raleigh's only Negro city councilman, John W. Winters, to attend a Joint Civilian Conference, conducted by the Department of Defense, May 20-26, for the purpose of giving approximately 75 civilian leaders, representing a cross-section of American business and professional leadership across the country a first-hand view of our armed forces.
Mr. Winters left Wednesday, and will be gone approximately 10 days.
The conference will open with a reception and dinner at Offutt Air Force Base in Omaha, Nebraska, on Thursday evening, May 20.
The group will begin a tour of bases on Friday. Included will be installations and ships, (See WINTERS, Page 2)

J.S. Stewart Re-elected At 'Bull City'

DURHAM -- John S. Stewart, president of Mutual Savings and Loan Association, defeated retired textile executive William J. Lee by over a 2-1 margin here May 15 to retain his post on the City Council from the Third Ward for the third consecutive election.
First elected to the Council in 1957, Stewart was re-elected in 1961 without opposition. In the May 15 election, Stewart polled 9,229 votes against Lee's 3,095. Although he had the (See STEWART, Page 2)

Boy, 15, Sets 2 Fires; Wants To Return To Reform School

GOLDSBORO -- A 15-year-old boy who told the local cops he wanted to return to a reform school Tuesday of this week, will apparently get his wish as he was held without bond on two counts of arson, one involving a $300,000 fire which almost destroyed a school, and a minor fire at a private home.
Justice of the Peace Leslie Sutherland ordered the boys, James T. Lane, held for trial in a criminal term of court, which begins Tuesday, May 25.
The slightly built Lane is charged with setting the fire which practically destroyed the School Street Elementary School early last Sunday, and at the home of Mrs. Dolly Bryant three weeks ago.
Police Chief H. A. Lane gave this account:
Young Lane was apparently angry at a teacher at the West Elm Junior High School, where he was a student, because he said his stepmother had been ridiculed by the teacher.
His attempt to enter that school Sunday was thwarted, because all the windows were locked, but was able to climb through a window and enter (See TWO FIRES, Page 2)

Greensboro Church Plans Big Building

GREENSBORO -- The march of the redevelopment program of this city that has left its image upon both the religious and business life included the membership of the historic Trinity AME Zion Church, and on Sunday, May 16, ground was broken at East Florida and Larkin Streets for a new edifice, estimated to cost $200,000.
The congregation, led by Rev. Cecil Bishop and Presiding Elder C. W. Lawrence, and General Officers D. W. Andrews and Alexander Barnes, took part in an appropriate ceremony that marked the beginning of an operation that will give Greensboro another modern church building that will add to the image that is now being created for bigger and better "Gate City."
The church building, one of the landmarks of the Negro community, located just off Market Street, is one of the many that were torn down to make way for the city's church life. It has served both Bennett College and A&T College and has listed in its membership many personages connected with both institutions. It was host to the 1936 General Conference of the denomination.
The ground-breaking ceremony began with the singing (See CHURCH BREAKS, 2)

We Apologize

This was our first attempt at offset printing, and errors were made in the placing of negatives as they should have been placed.
For these and other mistakes in our first "new" CAROLINIAN, we apologize.

Lover Assaults His Pregnant Girlfriend
Miss Clementine Lockley, 25, of 808 Johnson's Alley, told Officers D. Brinson and J. A. Perry at 10:23 p. m. Saturday, at Wake Memorial Hospital, that her boyfriend, Charles John Austin, also 25, of the same address, got mad with her because she left the house.
They met at the corner of Fayetteville and Cannon Sts., she stated, and he allegedly struck her, knocking her down, then kicked her in the stomach with his feet, but she refused to sign a warrant against him.
The extent of injuries to the 7-month pregnant woman were not known as the cops left Wake Memorial Hospital while she was being transferred upstairs for further examinations.

Man Slugged While In Barber's Chair
James Cozart, of 718 S. McDowell St., reported to Officers W. E. Kidd and B. G. Lassiter at 4:15 p. m. Saturday, he was sitting in the barber's chair at the Walnut Terrace Barber Shop, when Charles Edward Collins, 25, of 22 McKee Street, walked in and started beating him about the head and face with his hands and fists.
When "the law" talked to Collins, he stated he attacked Cozart because the latter had cut him on Easter Monday night, April 18. However, a warrant was signed, charging assault and battery, and Collins was "hauled off" to Wake County Jail. (See CRIME BEAT, Page 3)

PEPSICOLA PRESENTS $2,000 TO HIGH SCHOOLERS--J. D. Lewis, Special representative, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company, Raleigh, presented $500 scholarship awards to four high school seniors who maintained the highest scores on an examination given recently. This is the third year the scholarships have been offered by Thomas Gaddy, president of the Pepsi Bottling Company, Raleigh. Pictured, from left to right, are: Mr. Lewis, Miss Delinda Harris, Harold Dunn, Miss Ella Watson, and Wiley M. Davis, director, Testing Bureau of Saint Augustine's College.
