THE DOOR IS OPEN

The CAROLINIAN was assured that should the local colleges, (St. Augustine's College and Shaw University), desire the use of Riddick Stadium, on the campus of N. C. State University, for their football games when it's available, there is no reason for them not to offer this facility to their patrons.

Recently, The CAROLINIAN suggested that games by the colleges and high school be transferred there. We are gratified that the suggestion was most warmly received by not only the officials, but some of Raleigh's outstanding businessmen and policy-makers.

We understand, however, that the Shaw-St. Augustine's game is to stay in Chavis Park for Nov. 20. Time to promote and cost were given as the reasons from Shaw, which will be in charge of the game, for not transferring the Homecoming affair across town.

THE PLIGHT OF THE SMALL BUSINESSMAN

The CAROLINIAN calls attention to what seems a perplexing problem in the slum clearance projects being conducted here and throughout the country. With a program to clean out some 260 acres of residential and business property in East Raleigh occupied predominantly by Negroes, carries with it a possible death knell to individual initiative in the world of small, small businesses.

The so-called cornerstone or neighborhood business will be breathing hard for its last breath when the bulldozers caterpillar over the now occupied earth of their means of a living, tearing down long-occupied places of business. Possible little can be done through the body politic at this juncture or it is an acceptable fact that America has too-long been a two-way economy land of the haves and the have nots; and is

Flowers' Position Hailed

NEW YORK - Alabama Attorney General Richmond M. Flowers was commended Friday for his "courageous stand" in prosecuting two civil rights murder cases.

Dr. Gayraud S. Wilmore, Jr., executive director of the United Presbyterian Commission on Religion and Race, praised Mr. Flowers in a telegram sent Friday morning.

"We are heartened that you in your position as attorney general have labored for the integrity of the law and for human dignity," Dr. Wilmore said. "We are appreciative of the political and personal cost of your action. We want you to know you have our support in your efforts to obtain justice for persons of all races in Alabama."

The message, sent "on behalf of the United Presbyterian Commission on Religion and Race," took note of Mr. Flowers' "courageous stand in regard to the recent trial of Thomas Coleman and the current trial of Collier Leroy Wilkins, Jr."

The Coleman trial was in connection with the August 20 slaying of Jonathan Myrick Daniels, 26, an Episcopal seminarian. Flowers began prosecution of that case but was dismissed from it by the presiding judge.

Mr. Flowers was prosecuting the Wilkins case, in which the defendant was charged with murdering Mrs. Viola Gregg Luizzo on the night of March 25. Wilkins was also acquitted.

Reactivate Citizens' Association

In a special call meeting on Monday, October 25, at the Bloodworth YMCA, members attending the Raleigh Citizens Association meeting felt a special need to reactivate the Association.

It was felt that the mission of the organization has not been accomplished, and that there is still much work to be done. Long-time members of the organization, such as Clarence Lightner and John Winters, pointed to the various areas of community life that need the attention of a civic organization.

From this concern a special committee was appointed to bring into the next meeting a plan for reorganization. This plan will include an enlarging of our vision, the introduction of a new image for the organization, and the creation of new purposes and goals.

The planning committee is made up of James Shepard, chairman, Vernon Malone, J. J. Sansom, Wiley Latham, and Clarence Lightner.

The initial report of the committee will be made at the next meeting. This meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 4, at 8:00 p. m. at the Bloodworth YMCA.

All members and friends are invited to attend. Let us make the Association the vital and dynamic cog that it once was in the community.

Bishop R. L. Jones Blasts All Racism

After Tax Crackdown:

KKK May Be Halted Soon

Inquiries Continue In D. C.

HAYNESVILLE, Ala. (NPI) - Klan terror frightened an all-white jury into speedy acquitting Ku Klux Klansman Collier Leroy Wilkins, Jr. in the rider slaying of a white civil rights worker, Mrs. Viola Luizzo.

Elsewhere in the nation, the Klan was under fire from Wisconsin to Georgia.

In Washington, the Internal Revenue Service planned a tax crackdown on the Klan that could crush the hate organization.

The Klan's imperial wizard, Robert Shelton, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and grand dragon James R. Jones of Granite Quarry, N. C., faced charges of conspiring $24,000 in assets in three different bank accounts.

In Haynesville, however, the Klan was still riding high thanks to its threat of instant death to anyone who dares cross its path.

Only a few weeks after another Haynesville jury acquitted Tom Coleman in the killing of a white seminary rights worker, Jonathan M. Daniels, the jury acquitted Klansman Wilkins in a similar killing.

The jury included four self-avowed supremacists. No Negroes were allowed on the jury in either Haynesville trial.

The acquittal surprised no one familiar with Klan terror in this part of the country. Hardly any white man in these parts

Prelate Strikes At Hate

BY ALEXANDER BARNES HAMLET - "The black man is on the march and God is on his side and with God all things are possible," Bishop R. L. Jones told the closing day audience of the 55th session of the West Central Conference of the AME Zion Church, Sunday morning, as he delivered the sermon.

Without reference to the Ku Klux Klan, he lashed out against racism no matter from whence it came. He chose for a subject, "Love Versus Retaliation." He used the life of Samson to depict what evil attends retaliation. He cited how Samson killed and plundered and told how God poured out his wrath upon him

P. Robeson Found Hurt In Open Lot

NEW YORK (NPI) - Paul Robeson, internationally-known baritone concert artist, stage and screen actor of yesteryear, was found lying in a vacant lot last week in a semi-conscious condition.

According to police, the 67-year-old singer did not seem to be a victim of foul play. His wallet, containing $15, was found to be intact.

He was found lying in a clump of weeds in the Washington Heights sector, and was taken to Vanderbilt clinic for treatment of facial lacerations and injuries to his left ankle and hip.

His wife, Mrs. Eslanda Robeson, had earlier reported him missing. She told police he had been ill and occasionally suffered loss of balance and dizzy spells.

After treatment at the clinic, he was transferred to University hospital, where he is reported to be in fair condition. Questioned by police, Robeson said he did not remember how he came to be in the lot, or how he was injured.

In his youth, Robeson was a vigorous 200-pounder, and cap-
