DEAR SALLY

BY SALLY SHAW

DEAR SALLY: A very good girl friend of mine has asked me and my husband to stand up with her and her fiancé at their wedding later this month. Ordinarily, we would be delighted to do this, except for one very unusual angle. It happens that this will be my friend's second marriage, and both I and my husband served in the same roles at her first wedding six years ago. We are both very puzzled and uncomfortable about this, and are wondering if it would be fitting and proper for us to perform this re-run of our roles. ENCORE OR NOT.

DEAR ENCORE OR NOT: There is no reason at all for you and your husband to be feeling so uncomfortable or puzzled about this. Your "very good friend" evidently has no qualms about it, or she wouldn't have asked you -- and what else can you do for a friend but accept?

DEAR SALLY: How old do you think baby-sitters should be? Some of our neighbors employ a girl of 11 or 12 to sit with their small fry at night, and I think this is very unwise. What do you say? WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING: A girl of 12 or 13 might be able and qualified to handle the job during the daytime, if she is truly responsible and if her mother is within hailing distance. But for evening sitting, I think an older person should take care of a child, especially an infant. A girl in her mid-or late teens, positively known to be stable, conscientious and really fond of children, might be suitable. For overnight or longer periods, however, children should be in the care of an older woman if possible. A mother should always consider the possibility of an emergency developing with which an immature girl might not be able to cope. Baby-sitting is an extremely important responsibility... and every mother should remember this when she goes about employing her sitters.

DEAR SALLY: My wife has a brother who lives in another city, but since he travels quite a bit for his company, he occasionally comes to our town and when he does, he stays with us. The big problem about this is that this fellow has one of the foulest vocabularies I've ever run up against. I'm an ex-Marine and am no prude, but the language this guy uses even in the presence of his sister (my wife) makes me squirm -- and he even comes out with some very choice epithets in front of our children. My wife has spoken to him about this a couple of times, but so far it has done no good at all. Now she says it's up to me to handle this with her brother the next time he comes. How do you suggest I go about this? JACK.

DEAR JACK: If I were you I shouldn't wait for his next visit. Write to him now and tell him once and for all that if it's impossible for him to clean up his language, then for the sake of your children and the peace and harmony of your home, it's better that he don't come at all. You don't have to worry about using any gentleness or tact with this crude, ill-bred oaf!

DEAR SALLY: When I am writing a note to my child's teacher, with whom I am on friendly terms, how do I properly close the note and how do I sign my name? MRS. G.

DEAR MRS. G.: "Very sincerely yours" would be appropriate. And since she knows very well who you are, you would sign, for example, "Jane Garrison," and it would not be necessary to write beneath this, for example, "Mrs. John T. Garrison."

Coal Is Arriving At CP&L Plant

First shipments of a "mountain of coal" to fire Carolina Power & Light Company's new $100-million steam-electric generating plant near Roxboro are arriving at the site.

More than a quarter of a million tons of coal will be delivered before May 1, when the first unit of the plant is scheduled for operation, according to Plant Superintendent Ed Utley.

The first unit will consume around 2,200 tons of coal per day. When a second and larger unit is completed, the plant will consume around 5,500 tons of coal per day.

The first unit of the plant will have a capacity of 500,000 horsepower, and the second unit scheduled for completion in 1968 will have a capacity of 872,000 horsepower.

The first 700-ton shipment of coal, a low-grade ore which will be used as ground cover on the plant's huge coal pile, was delivered January 5, from a field near Dunlap, Kentucky. The coal is being delivered by Norfolk and Western Railway on a track constructed to serve the Person County generating facility.

Bishop Lord, Governor Tawes To Attend Zion Church Meet

SALISBURY, Md. - Bishop John Wesley Lord, Methodist Church, and Governor J. Millard Tawes will attend the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Bishops and the annual meeting of the Ministers' & Laymen's Association, which meets at St. James AME Zion Church, Jan. 12-16, with Bishop Felix Anderson presiding.

Rev. Charles H. Mack, host-pastor, announced here Friday that the two outstanding personages of church and state had agreed to speak at the opening night session, Jan. 12, 8 p. m. Bishop Lord presides over this area for his denomination and has been working tirelessly toward the unification of all Methodist bodies. His interest in the movement was shown when he took part in the dedication of offices for Bishop R. L. Jones, G. W. Baten and H. C. Bunton, AME Zion, AME, and CME respectively, in the Methodist Building, in Washington, in 1965.

Governor Tawes, even though deep in preparation for the opening of his state's legislature, expressed delight in having been invited and said it would be a pleasure to appear, due to the cause that the meet represented. It is to be remembered that Salisbury is in the heart of the Eastern Shore, where there has been much civil unrest.

Dean Mae Barbee Boone, Maryland State College, will be the mistress of ceremony for the welcome program on Wednesday night. Others who will
