JACKIE "MOMS" MABLEY

Belles, Sam and Bill, the Jamo Thomas Band, and as an extra added attraction Stevie Wonder.

Now known as the Clown Princess of Comedy, "Moms" Mabley has been bringing laughter to audiences since she was 14 years old. Antique in her dress on stage, Mom's sharp and agile mind reveals that her thinking is attuned to the Jet Age.

She is a toothless, hipster-grandmother of six. Her career in show business dates back to 1924. She holds the record for number of performances at Harlem's famed Apollo theater. Her unique comic combination of biting satire and home-spun humor sold over a million copies of her first album.

Dr. William H. Owens, professor of speech and theatre at New York State University College at Brockport, will serve as the critique judge. Professor Owens, who formerly taught at Virginia State and South Carolina State Colleges, is a native of Richmond, and a graduate of Virginia Union (A.B.), Columbia (M.A.) and Denver (Ph.D.) Universities.

A World War II veteran, the drama judge has studied in London at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts, and is stage director for the Rochester (N. Y.) Opera Theatre Association.
