NAPE Plays Host To Congressmen, Others

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- On the evening of April 21, the National Alliance of Postal and Federal Employees will play host to its friends in Congress, in the post office and in other Federal Agencies, at a dinner in the Ballroom of the Washington Hilton Hotel.

The Alliance, its Women's Auxiliary, and its branches are making this the opening event of a three day session devoted to lobbying and learning.

Principal speaker at the dinner will be attorney Carl Stokes, the man who, in 1965, almost became mayor of Cleveland. Attorney Stokes, a native Cleveland, holds important posts in most of the Civil Rights, professional and community organizations in his city and state.

Others appearing on the program include Mrs. Cenoria Johnson, Director Washington Bureau, National Urban League; Mr. Frederick C. Belen,

Livingstone Get Grant Of $268,656

SALISBURY -- Livingstone College received a grant of $268,656 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare this week to assist in the construction of three projects on the church-related college campus.

The money will be used to help in the construction of a new Social Science-Communication Arts building costing approximately $400,000 which, when completed, will house the division of social sciences, language laboratories, classrooms, offices, lounges and a small theatre for teaching and recording drama and other communication expressions.

Also included in the building package are additions to two existing buildings on the campus, the Carnegie Library and the William Johnson Treat Gymnasium. Approximately $200,000 will be spent in expanding and air-conditioning the Carnegie Library to enable its growth to keep pace with the ever-increasing student enrollment. It is estimated that $250,000 will be used for adding a new section to the Treat Gymnasium to accommodate the physical education program.

Total cost of the construction involving the three buildings will amount to nearly $850,000, and work will begin this summer or early fall on the projects which have been assigned high priority on the second phase of the Ten-Year, $6,000,000 Development Program at the college.

ences, field trips and laboratory experiences designed for college-bound youth with demonstrated ability.

Dr. Trobrian stated that there would be a limited number of scholarships and financial assistance to persons meeting the requirements.

Warren County Attorney Will Seek Seat In House

WARRENTON -- SEEKS N. C. HOUSE SEAT - Theoseus T. Clayton, of Warrenton, announced on Friday, April 15, his candidacy for the House of Representatives. This district will elect two representatives from a three county area (Vance, Warren and Franklin). He previously had made a bid for House of Representatives from Warren County.

Clayton said "He seeks this position with the objective of serving all the people of this area with particular concern for the poor. According to statistical data, the poor represents a large portion of this general area's population. The key factors necessary for development, growth and progress in this area are improved education and increased employment opportunities for all people."

Clayton, 35 years of age, has been practicing law in Warren County for the past four years, while concerned and actively involved with many civic and industrious developments of the area. He received a B. S. degree from Johnson C. Smith University and LL B degree from North Carolina College.

He also served two years in the U. S. Army. He is married to the former Eva McPhearson of Augusta, Ga.; they have three children, Joanne, Theoseus Jr., and Martin.

Charles Butler Is Speaker At Winston-Salem

WINSTON-SALEM -- "I am here today as part of Vice-President Humphrey's personal task force which carries a message of hope and opportunity to Negro high school and college students."

The speaker was Charles Butler, Jr., an engineer who is manager, Equipment and Systems Evaluation, ITT Federal Electric Corporation, Paramus, New Jersey. He was talking to the students at Winston-Salem State College during the midweek assembly.

Mr. Butler spent last Wednesday (April 7) on the campus under the auspices of the "Vice President's Task Force On Youth Motivation," an adjunct of Plans for Progress.

"Plans for Progress" is a voluntary effort by the leadership of American business and industry to aggressively promote and implement equal employment opportunity. The over 300 companies which make up the group pledge to take the initiative by carrying affirmative action policies and projects to end discrimination and increase job opportunity for minorities.

The Task Force on Youth Motivation consists of Negroes who have attained responsible positions in the recent past in Plans for Progress Companies. "We visit high schools and colleges with large minority student enrollments as 'living witnesses' to the fact that opportunity is available for those who will train themselves for it. Our objective is to inform the students of new opportunities now available and to motivate them to prepare for an seek those jobs," Mr. Butler said.

The speaker told the students that he was not on a propaganda mission at the expense of the government as some have implied. "My company pays my salary and travelling expenses and the other companies do the same," he said. He pointed out that it is a standing rule that Plans for Progress Task Force members are not to receive honorariums of any type. "We are volunteers, we do this not because we have to but because we want to," Mr. Butler added.

High school students from throughout the state will attend the event to learn about career opportunities in home economics.

Education Advancement Fund Announces Grants Of 486G's

NEW YORK - The Fund for the Advancement of Education, established by the Ford Foundation, Wednesday, April 20, announced grants totalling $486,500 for a series of experiments designed to encourage the reading and ownership of pleasurable books by disadvantaged children and adults.

"We are pleased that these grants coincide with the observance of National Library Week," said Fund President Clarence Faust, "because their primary aim is to stimulate reading for enjoyment. The books involved in these experiments are not textbooks, or school books. They are the kind of books one reads for pleasure."

The largest grant, amounting to $200,000 was made to Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA), the domestic equivalent of the Peace Corps. VISTA has more than 2,000 volunteer workers scattered throughout the country, offering various kinds of help to disadvantaged Americans. These volunteers are working in urban slums, in poverty-stricken rural areas, on Indian reservations, in migrant worker camps, in Job Corps centers -- wherever there are disadvantaged people in need of help. They work with people of all ages, ranging from pre-school children to the elderly.

There are about 11,000 persons in the United States who are more than 100 years old, the North Carolina Heart Association reports.

The cardiovascular disease control programs of the North Carolina Heart Association are financed entirely by public contribution to local Heart Fund drives, memorial gifts and bequests.

Raring to spring into action, now that spring is here? Exercise is good for you, says the North Carolina Heart Association, but don't try to do too much too soon, especially after a long layoff.
