NCNW Meets Here, Delegate To National Confab Reports

The regular monthly meeting of the National Council of Negro Women, met at the home of Mrs. Mary Carnage on Sunday, May 8, and presided over by the president, Miss Jeanette Hicks, was highlighted by a Musical Tea and a report of the delegate, Mrs. George Exum, who recently attended the conference at Daytona Beach, Fla. Excerpts from the report follows:

"NEW WAYS OF WORK FOR GREATER COMMUNITY SERVICE"

The role of N. C. N. W. in assuming responsible leadership to promote helpful and productive living in all areas of life was highlighted at the Regional Conference which was held recently by N. C. N. W. at Daytona Beach, Florida. Several hundred delegates and their guests were in attendance.

Chapters from New York, Pennsylvania, Washington, D. C., Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia and Florida were represented.

Dr. Jean Noble, professor of Education, New York University, and Assistant Professor at New York University Center for Human Relation Studies, and vice-president of the organization, coordinated the three day session. The conference emphasized: Promoting Vital Civic Action, Promoting the Dignity of All Persons, Volunteer Community Leadership, Achieving Equal Opportunity, Stimulating Creative Relations Among All People, and Creating a Resounding Collective Voice.

At a public luncheon, held in the Banquet room at the Voyager Hotel, headquarters for the convention, Lawrence A. Oxley,

Director of Special Projects of the National Council of Senior Citizens, addressed the group as its guest speaker. He centered his attention in behalf of Medicare and Senior Citizens. Leaders of the convention with Dr. Noble as convener sought to project the image of "Women in Community Service," a product of NCNW known as "W-ICS."

Among others who shared the podium with Dr. Noble as speaker at a public banquet were Mrs. Samuel Zales, and Miss Lena Horne, both National co-chairmen of Life Membership and Mrs. Mildred Boone, national basileus of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority. The lovely and talented Lena Horne was featured with a review of her recently released autobiography, "Lena Talks About Lena" from which the Council shares in the benefit

May 7, he and his brother decided to attend a nearby carnival, where "Billy" was soon seen picking an argument with Cordell. This was about 8:30 p. m.

"He pulled a knife on my brother," stated Cornell, "and both of us tussled with him and took the knife away. He left then, but told my brother not to be around when he came back. Billy only lived about five blocks away, Cordell told me." The Silvers twins soon left the carnival and headed for home.

Cornell Silvers said "Billy" returned after about twenty minutes, walked up to them and said, "Alright, you people think you're bad." Both Cordell and Cornell then started to walk away from him at this time.

"Don't make another step or I'll kill both of you," Cornell quoted "Billy" as saying. "We thought he was joking," said Cornell.

He said at this time, his brother turned around and started walking back toward "Billy," whose hand was in his right hand pants pocket. Cordell's last words, according to Cornell, were, "Look, man, we took the knife away from you, why don't you just forget it."

At this point, "Billy" reportedly whipped out a .22 calibre pistol and shot Cordell seven times in the stomach and the latter collapsed on the sidewalk. Cordell was about seven feet away from his assailant at this time.

Young Cornell said he rushed to his brother and shook him, "but he was already dead."

Asked if his brother had a knife or gun, Cornell said, "My brother never carried any deadly weapons."

"Billy" then started running, as a woman, who heard the shots called an ambulance. Police officers, who were around the corner from where the incident took place, heard the shots, saw "Billy" running around the next block and penned him in an alley.

CUTS COP IN FACE
Cornell said once cornered in the one-way alley, "Billy" began to fight with the officers and cut one in the face with a weapon. He was finally subdued, however, and arrested on a charge of homicide.

Funeral services for Cordell Silvers will be held in Brooklyn on Tuesday, May 17, at a time and place to be announced. He was married to the former Miss Louise Robertson, also a Wendell native, who survives him as does a two-year-old daughter, Joyce Silvers. An uncle, Lynn Silvers, also lives in Brooklyn.

Cordell Silvers had been employed by Mack and Jones Rug Company during most of his four years in the New York borough.

The mysterious "Billy" is said to be about 22 years of age, but his native home and other vital data concerning him were not available.

CHARLOTTE (NPI) - The National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress of the National Baptist Convention, U. S. A., Inc., will hold a six-day meet June 20-26 to launch a new four-year program from 1966-69.

The general theme of the June session will be "Christian Education and the Challenge of Change."

The sessions will offer 92 classes for the training of Christian leaders, 34 discussion groups, seven special projects, including a laboratory school for children workers, and a Christian education administration workshop.

During the closing sessions of the program, there will be a "Booker T. Washington Night," and a youth parade will take place. Special Congress sermons will be delivered.

For the new program, the schedule and format will be changed -- classes will be held in the morning and discussion groups will meet in the afternoon.

Special messages on the theme will be delivered during the morning periods, and will include an address by Dr. O. Clay Maxwell, Congress president.

A special study book and study guide has been published for the program. Heading the list of special projects will be the William H. Jernagin lecture series.

from the sale of each book. Climaxing the convention was a pilgrimage to the home of the illustrious founder, Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune. The Council seeks to illuminate the memory of Mary McLeod Bethune by insuring an increasingly enlightened future for the National Council of Negro Women which she founded in 1935.

gro fraternal and social organizations will be utilized to help interpret the program to the community and speaker team from suburban areas will also aid in this. Educational workshops and printed and visual materials will also be used to reach Negroes in search of improving their housing conditions.

A second area of operation will be to service and coordinate the efforts of existing fair housing groups and to stimulate new ones where needed. A key feature of this area will be a neighborhood stabilization effort to forestall panic selling and to otherwise stem the flight of white families from neighborhoods that are integrating.

The support of local groups such as church and religious organizations and business associations will be enlisted for this. Speaker teams comprised of white and Negro individuals and couples will discuss living in integrated neighborhoods and attempt to break down stereotyped thinking about property depreciation and crime rates.

The National Urban League will also distribute educational material citing facts and figures which dispel these myths. It is hoped that such an educational program, aided by community organizations, will frustrate the efforts of "block-busters" who make their profits by exploiting the groundless fears of white homeowners.

Mrs. Kirk also advised the cops to take the children to the Dorothea Drive address, which they did.

A warrant was also drawn, charging Mrs. Brooks with abandonment of children. It could not be learned at CAROLINIAN press time whether the mothers had been located and what the disposal of the cases would be.

Rev. NeSmith and his wife, Mrs. Betty White NeSmith, are to be remembered as plaintiffs in a case which caused former all-white Rex Hospital here to relax its racial bars.

Mrs. NeSmith gave birth to a baby son at Rex in March, thus becoming the first Negro mother in modern history to have this distinction.

Training Rapped

Office of Economic Opportunity programs are directed increasingly at compensating for decades of disadvantage, but the general education system moves ahead on this front more slowly.

A complex problem - to which the first, easy answers are wrong -- is presented in the increasing evidence of the non-white worker's rejecting available unskilled, low-paid work because he knows he would have been equipped for something better if he had had a fair chance earlier, and because the work is itself a symbol of previous economic bondage.

The non-white unemployment problem is merging rapidly with the broader problem of the disadvantaged worker. The number of hard core unemployed - those out of work 15 weeks or more -- dropped markedly between the last quarter in 1963 and the last quarter in 1965, from over 1 million to 675,000.

Dunston had phoned for "the law", and he signed an assault with a deadly weapon warrant against Goode at this time, saying he had been struck with the bottle.

When the two officers first saw Goode, upon his return, the latter picked up a shotgun and a rifle and threw them into some bushes, but claimed he didn't have a shotgun or rifle. However, both weapons were retrieved by the officers in the yard at 613 S. Blount Street.

A driver for Acme Cab's number 12, Goode was arrested and the guns confiscated.
