Tri-County Conservatives Sponsor Mrs. Julia Brown

By J. B. HARREN
ROCKY MOUNT -- In what appears to be an obvious attempt to discredit the Civil Rights efforts of Negroes and whites alike; and to paint the communist smear on the many Civil Rights organizations, the Tri-County Conservative Club here, is sponsoring the appearance here at the R. M. Wilson Jr. High School (an integrated facility) Wednesday night, May 25, Mrs. Julia Brown formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, where she alleges spent several years as a member of the Communist Party only to find that they were infiltrating the Civil Rights movement and deceiving many people.

The story of Mrs. Julia Brown has been floating around for the past few years. This Negro woman is alleged to have told her story about Communism to the FBI; and to have been requested to re-enter the party and work as an undercover agent. This she allegedly did for years. Now she is casting a shadow over all legitimate civil rights efforts and has been quoted widely by all the groups whose determination are to stop the advance of civil rights at all costs.

Although Eastern Carolina Negroes are loathe to take the lead in the civil rights movement, they, nevertheless, are looking with askance upon anyone of their race who would come into the state and say things that would discourage or discredit the efforts of those who have attempted to better things for them.

Rocky Mount's Mayor John Minges, a wealthy soft drink bottler, is scheduled to introduce Mrs. Brown, which comes as a shock to local Negro leaders who had felt him to be somewhat on the liberal side. It is assumed that Mrs. Brown will have spoken and gone on her southern tour of "My Experience in the Communist Party," and how she was deceived. Negroes are being urged to join the whites and donate a dollar and hear Mrs. Brown talk. Just how many will go is the question being asked in colored circles. One minister has heard Mrs. Brown elsewhere. He says she failed to make a case against civil rights since she only dealt in generalities without positively naming names.

Meanwhile, an election is at hand in which it is hoped Negroes will be more than a little active in voting to help elect three out of four candidates for N. C. Legislature.

Class Of '21 Sets FSC Fete

FAYETTEVILLE -- One of the feature of the Fayetteville State College commencement will be the reunion of the "Class of 21," Alexander Barnes, who was the president of the class, reported that the nine surviving members are expected to be here.

Other members are: Mrs. Mary Williams Watson, retired teacher of the Raleigh School System, Raleigh; Mrs. Della Wall Jones, retired, Smithfield; Mrs. Irene Mitchell Hill, housewife, Clinton; Mrs. Mary Wall Grier, nurse, Charlotte; Mrs. Estelle Torry McNeil, retired school teacher, Fayetteville; James T. and Mrs. Otelia Saunders, retired Moore County teachers, Southern Pine; and Mrs. Geneva McLaughlin Caple, retired Anson County teacher, Morven.

It is to be remembered that the first accredited high school graduates in North Carolina, attending state schools were members of the 1921 classes. There were only 28 in the state and 16 were graduated from the then Fayetteville State Normal.

Members of the class are expected to attend a breakfast and then take part in the reunion exercises, scheduled for 11 a. m. Saturday, May 28. They will also tour the campus and spend the day visiting old haunts.

Successful professional military man of the future, as in the past, will still have to conceive the correct employment of the weapons developed by a fast moving technology. He may also have less time in which to do it, and because of it, military leaders need to be intellectually competent."

Shorthand Workshops Scheduled

DURHAM -- North Carolina College will offer two one-day Introductory Shorthand Teacher-Education Workshops July 18 and 19, according to Miss Mary F. Suggs, acting chairman of the college's Commerce and Economics Department.

Designed for business teachers and limited to 24 students each, the workshops will give enrollees basic lessons in touch shorthand and its theory, and introduce basic skills in the use of the 23-key Stenograph Shorthand Machine.

The NCC workshops, the only two scheduled in North Carolina, are among similar sessions to be held at 45 colleges and universities throughout the nation.

Persons interested in the training, which is free to in-service teachers, should apply to Miss Suggs in the NCC Commerce and Economics Department.

MEMPHIS -- Look who's gone to the Civil Rights commission: Two Klansmen, arrested while preparing to throw hate publications into yards at night. The complaint, filed by the pair, accuses Shelby county sheriff's deputies of harassing them because of their race. Each was fined $43.50 on disorderly conduct charges, after preparing to distribute copies of "The Fiery Cross" in the middle of the night.

LOS ANGELES -- Both houses of the California legislature have approved a bill punishing arsonists in riots, and Gov. Pat Brown is prepared to sign the measure. The bill, prompted by the two recent Watts uprisings, provides stiff penalties for possession of Molotov cocktails, for example.

Pentagon Officials Attend ROTC Banquet At College

GREENSBORO -- A top civilian officer at the Pentagon last week told an audience at A&T College that colleges and universities are indispensable to the defense of the nation.

The speaker was Dr. Theodore Marrs, North Carolina native and deputy in the Department of Defense.

Dr. Marrs, who gave up his medical practice two years ago to serve with the Department of Defense, spent his early years in Greensboro.

Referring to the Viet Nam conflict, he said, "We will in this war, and the cold war, in the laboratories, classrooms and libraries of our colleges." He told the group, "The suc-
