

TWO MINUTES WITH THE BIBLE

IF HE BE ABLE
"Either his uncle...or any that is nigh of kin unto him of his family may redeem him, or, if he be able, he may redeem himself" (Lev. 25:49).

Under Old Testament law one who failed in business could sell himself, or be sold, into slavery, his master paying off his debts in lieu of salary. The slave could be redeemed, however, by his uncle or any near relative that could afford to pay off his debts, or, says our passage: "if he be able, he may redeem himself."

"If he be able!" Significant qualification, for what bankrupt slave was ever able to redeem himself?

In this way God would teach us an important lesson about salvation from sin. All of us have failed in business, as it were. We have amassed a huge debt of sin against God and fellowman and have become morally and spiritually bankrupt.

As have many "nigh of kin," us, but they are unable to redeem us because they themselves are bankrupt sinners, but there is One who has an infinite store of righteousness with which to pay our debt and redeem us. Indeed, He did pay the penalty for all our sins when He, the Holy One, died in shame and disgrace as a sinner on Calvary's cross. He is our blessed Kinsman Redeemer, "for verily He took not on Him the nature of angels, but He took on Him the seed of Abraham" (Heb. 2:16) that He might redeem Jew and Gentile; "made for a little while lower than the angels for the suffering of death...that He, by the grace of God, should taste death for every man" (Heb. 2:9).

There are many, alas, who will not face up to their condition. They somehow think that they can still redeem themselves. To them God says: "Do it, if you are able." To the rich young ruler who asked "What must I do to inherit eternal life," the Lord said "You know the law...this do, and you will live."

But who of us has perfectly kept the law of God? Who of us is not a repeated law-breaker in the sight of God? Who is able to redeem himself? Why not then turn from self to Christ, our rich Kinsman Redeemer, "in whom we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of His grace" (Eph. 1:7).

MEDITATION

A SERMONETTE BY COLIN DOUGLAS
"Let us follow after things which make for peace, and things whereby we may edify one another." - Rom. 14:19.

If we have a sincere desire to live and work in ideal conditions and be in perfect harmony and agreement with other persons, we must consider how we can create such an environment. If it happens that we have been resisting persons and conditions, let us open our minds and hearts to God's spirit of harmony and adjustment.

Everyone knows that when we fight and resist, we are unhappy. When we understand and adjust, we are happy. It is as simple as that. If we do adjust easily to other persons or to conditions, we can develop this ability. Every earnest effort we make to be understanding and tolerant of others, every earnest effort we may to bring peace and harmony to our environment makes it easier for us to be adaptable and flexible in our thoughts and attitude.

As we cease to resist other persons and conditions about us, and as we open our minds and hearts to God's spirit of harmony and adjustment, life becomes easier for us, richer and happier. An attitude of cheerfulness keeps you relaxed and serene, and conditions your mind for the right handling of situations as they arise. Your attitude is reflected in your face and manner, and other persons catch your cheerfulness—and a state of harmony is thus set up -- for it is difficult for any other person to attempt to attack one who is constantly armed with good cheer and a sense of harmony. A wonderful way to insure a successful, happy day is to say quietly when you awake each morning, "Good morning, God, I am happy. You are here today, I want to walk with You and to express Your spirit of good will, cheer, and love always."

"A merry heart maketh a cheerful countenance." - Prov. 15:13.

Dr. S. Smith Warns Students At Bennett

GREENSBORO -- Dr. Samuel R. Smith, dean of students, Greensboro College, speaking to student leaders at Bennett College Sunday, warned them that unless they have spirit and character, their campus will not have it.

Stating that "the moral decline of our society is evident everywhere," Dr. Smith urged the students to "get in stride with God now, for later on you will have neither the will nor the desire."

A charge to next year's campus officers was given by Miss Mittie White, '66, of Newark, N. J., president of the Student Senate, and the response was made by Miss Armita Blackwell, '67, of Philadelphia, Pa., next year's president.

ATTEND CHURCH

Triumph OVER THE SEAS

"What is man... Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands"

God has blessed man and given him the right and power to rule over his creation. As man has needs, God has given him the knowledge and ability to meet these needs. Pictured here is only one of many such triumphs. Our nation has particularly been blessed. Let us each Sunday attend worship services and give thanks to our Lord, who is so generous.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny, the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
