CP&L Shareholders Hear Good Report

Shareholders of Carolina Power & Light Company last Wednesday at their annual meeting heard 1965 described as a "good year" for the company and for the whole economy of the company's service area.

The shareholders, 87 per cent of whom were represented in person or by proxy, re-elected their company's 14 directors and approved amendments to a stock purchase plan for employees.

Reviewing the year's business, L. V. Sutton, chairman of the board, said that revenues increased eight per cent over 1964; earnings per share of common stock rose from $1.60 to $1.80; and total kilowatt-hour sales were 10.8 per cent higher than in 1964.

Growth of industry in the CP&L area was at a record rate in 1965, Sutton pointed out. Announcements were made during the year of total capital expenditures to exceed $320 million for new or expanded manufacturing plants, as compared with $200 million for 1964. The total for the first four months of 1966 is already at $206 million.

He noted that the company's tax bill in 1965 was over $27,800,000, an increase of $600,000 over 1964.

Sutton announced that the dedication of the new electric generating plant at Roxboro will be held September 14 with Governor Dan K. Moore as the principal speaker.

The cost of the company's construction program for the next three years is estimated at approximately $200 million. Sutton said the program includes completion of the second unit now under construction at Roxboro and a portion of the cost of the nuclear-fueled unit scheduled for completion in 1970 at the Robinson plant at Hartsville, S. C.

Meeting afterward, the directors declared regular quarterly dividends and re-elected company officers: Sutton, chairman of the board and chief executive officer; Shearon Harris, president; H. B. Robinson, executive vice-president; W. Reid Thompson, vice-president and general counsel; H. G. Isley, E. N. Pope, J. C. Richert, Jr., J. R. Riley and Paul S. Colby, vice-presidents; R. S. Mallison, secretary; R. B. Carpenter, treasurer; H. T. Buchanan, J. S. Currie and J. R. Powell, assistant treasurers; and J. L. Lancaster, Jr., assistant secretary.

A dividend of 32 cents per share was declared on the common stock payable August 1 to shareholders of record July 8. Dividends of $1.25 per share on the $5 preferred stock and $1.05 on the $4.20 serial preferred stock were declared payable October 1 to holders of record September 21.

Directors of CP&L are Sutton, Harris, Robinson, Carpenter, Thompson and W. H. Weather-erspoon, all of Raleigh; Hargrove Bellamy of Wilmington; Raymond A. Bryan of Goldsboro; E. Hervey Evans of Laurinburg; L. H. Harvin, Jr., of Henderson; Verne Rhoades and John V. Veach of Asheville; Fulton B. Creech of Sumter, S. C.; and Horace Tilghman, Jr., of Sellers, S. C.

NCC Finals Speaker Tops In Education

DURHAM - North Carolina College's 1966 commencement speaker, Dr. Edward R. Brice, who has received fourteen awards and citations from foreign governments, colleges, and universities, is one of the most decorated U. S. civil servants in Washington today.

Now assistant to the assistant secretary for education, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Washington, Dr. Brice will deliver the principal address at NCC's 55th annual commencement Sunday, May 29. The convocation, which is open to the public, will begin at 3 p. m. in the college's McDougald Gymnasium. Some 600 candidates will receive undergraduate, graduate, and professional degrees from the institution's four schools.

Brice, who joined the staff of the U. S. Office of Education as a specialist in fundamental and literary education in 1958, had served for eight years prior to that with the U. S. Department of State and the International Cooperation Administration, holding positions as public affairs officer at the American Embassy in Monrovia, Liberia; chief of the education division of the U. S. Operation Mission to Liberia; and as chief educational advisor to the government of Liberia. From 1956 to 1958 he was chief of the education division of the U. S. Operation Mission to Nepal and chief educational advisor to the Kingdom of Nepal. In 1961-62, he served as special assistant to Gov. G. Mennen Williams, assistant Secretary of State.

A graduate of Tuskegee Institute, Brice holds M. A. and Ph. D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania. A former president of Clinton Junior College, Rock Hill, S. C., and a former dean of educational extension at South Carolina State College, he is one of the founding members of the Adult Education Association. He is the author of eight books, three of them textbooks published by the Holt, Rinehart, and Winston Publishing Co.

The commencement activities officially begin on Saturday, June 4, with the annual meeting of the A & T College General Alumni Association. That is scheduled for the Carver Hall Auditorium beginning at 9:30 A. M.

Other Saturday events include: The annual Symphony Band-Choir Concert at 4:00 P. M.; the President's Reception for Graduates, Parents and Alumni at 5:30 P. M., and the annual Alumni Dinner at Holiday Inn, South, beginning at 7:30 P. M.

This year marks President Nabrit's 30th anniversary at Howard. He joined the School of Law faculty in 1936, and later was to serve in such capacities as assistant to the president, secretary of the University, director of public relations, and dean of the School of Law. He was named president July 1, 1960.

During next week's exercises honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws will be conferred on four prominent citizens. They are Congressman John E. Fogarty (D-R. I.); Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University; Constance Baker Motley, president of the Borough of Manhattan, New York City; and the Rev. Dr. William Holmes Borders, pastor of Wheat Street Baptist Church, Atlanta, Ga.

In addition, degrees will be conferred on some 3,000 seniors in Howard's 10 schools and colleges.

Prison Inmate Objects To Being Halted; Injures Six

JOLIET, Ill. - (NPI) - Daniel Sconiers, 22-year-old Chicagoan serving a 5-10 year term in Stateville penitentiary for armed robbery, is jealous of his reputation for being a difficult prisoner, and proved it last week at the expense of six guards.

Assigned to a coal-loading detail, Sconiers was spotted by a guard inching toward a nearby yard area. Ordered to halt, he refused, whereupon other guards were summoned.

One of the guards, Lt. Lester Ford, began writing out a disciplinary ticket - the first which Sconiers has received in four years.

That's when the prisoner lived up to his billing. Using a shovel, he began belaboring the guards until they finally subdued him.

Candidate Howard Twiggs Sets Spirited Campaign

Howard Twiggs, 33-year-old Raleigh attorney and the recipient of the Raleigh "Young Man of the Year Award" for 1965, is waging a spirited campaign in his first bid for elected office. A candidate for the House of Representatives, Twiggs said that he "has visited every town in Wake County and has enjoyed meeting the people and discussing issues with them."

One of the major points of legislation that he has endorsed has been a strong position on education. "In my opinion school teachers salaries, which rank 40th in the nation and some $1,200 below the national average, should be greatly increased by the next Legislature. I favor a $5,000 starting salary for teachers which would immediately move North Carolina in line with our sister states and would put us closer to the position of educational leadership in the Southeast. "I also favor the continuing contract for teachers and a reduction in classroom size," Twiggs stated.

As past president of the Wake County Mental Health Association, a member of the Board of Directors for the Wake County Retarded Childrens Association, and a Board member of the Wake County Sheltered Workshop, Twiggs related, "I have worked closely with the problems of mental illness and retardation in the past five years and know that much can be done in these areas. In particular, we desperately need additional personnel to staff our clinics and hospitals. This would allow both better attention to hospital patients and also provide the staff for much needed out patient treatment."

Twiggs has been active in civic and community affairs, having served as President of the Raleigh Jaycees, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Wake County Bar Association and as a director of the Raleigh Chamber of Commerce. He is a member and Sunday School teacher at St. Michael's Episcopal Church and resides with his wife and three daughters on Marlowe Road in Raleigh.

Yes, We All Talk

PARENTS MAKE THEIR CHILDREN STUTTER

The statistics indicate that about seven people out of every 1,000 persons stutter, that it is acquired during the language and speech-learning period (2 to 5 years of age), because of the home environment and parental domination of children.

For help, parents should send to the Interstate Publishing Company, 19-27 North Jackson St., Danville, Ill. - 61834, for:

and a gash on the head. Less seriously injured were his fellow guards.

Sconiers was transferred to Stateville in 1964 from the Pontiac branch of the penitentiary, because he had "failed to adjust."

Dr. Boulware Formulates A Theory For All Snorers

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. - A theory of compensative resortia has been formulated by Marcus H. Boulware, Ph. D., professor of speech and also was an inveterate snorer, in coping with the snoring problem in a family.

This theory is based upon the concept that it is feasible for a nonsnoring mate to compensate for the failure of the snorer in conquering his problem. The nonsnoring spouse can compensate by (1) wearing ear stopples to mask out the snores or reduce them to an intensity comparable to that in a quiet rural garden, or (2) train the unconscious mind to reject undesirable auditory snoring stimuli as it does various kinds of environmental noises amidst which the average person sleeps soundly, or (3) by developing a positive attitude that enables one to be willing to help the snoring spouse through mental mechanism of compensation.

The reduction of noise by ear stopples is obvious, but learning how to disregard unconsciously disturbing snores is more difficult. However, just as one can concentrate upon reading a book while the television, radio, or hi-fi is playing, a nonsnorer, if willing, can also shut out from his brain distracting snores and thereby get sleep.

Developing a positive attitude toward helping a snoring mate demands mental sympathy and the earnest desire to help the failing one. The negative "Why should I compensate, or why should I put on ear stopples, or I won't do it" will destroy the security of a marriage. Sleeping in separate rooms is an escape technique which destroys the lines of communication between a man and his wife, and when this is done, both might as well be living 2,500 miles apart instead of the next room. But an application of the theory of compensative resortia will make the marriage flower bloom.
