Cook, Lytle And Gil-Smythe Get 'Distinguished Teacher Awards'

Selected as recipients of the "Distinguished Teacher Award," Harry Gil-Smythe, Lenoir H. Cook, and James E. Lytle were honored here at Shaw University's annual University Banquet recently.

The trio, along with Eugene M. Howell, who has been employed at Shaw University since 1928, represent a total of 146 years of continuous service at the College.

The banquet is an annual affair honoring returning alumni and the graduating class and their parents.

Gil-Smythe, who is a professor of music and director of the famed Shaw Choral Society, and Cook, who is presently the University's director of special services, first came to Shaw under the administration of William Stuart Nelson, the school's fourth president and first Negro head.

Lytle, who directs the college's athletic program and is head baseball coach, and Howell, a permanent fixture on the campus building and grounds staff, began their tenure in 1928, under Joseph Leishman Peacock, the school's third president.

The presentations were made by President James E. Cheek, who announced that the awards would be presented annually to the faculty member who has contributed meritoriously to the University and to the Shaw students.

A graduate of Howard University and the University of Michigan, where he received the B. A. and Mus. M. degrees respectively, Gil-Smythe is a concert pianist of note. Under his direction the Shaw Choral Society, which was established by him in his first year at Shaw, has achieved recognition as one of the outstanding "symphonic" chorale organizations in the United States.

Cook, who also doubles as professor of foreign languages, came here in 1931 after working a year at Howard University. A graduate of Dartmouth College, he has worn many hats in his thirty-five years on the Shaw campus. Effective July 1, he assumes an even newer role—that of director of the college's general education program.

Lytle, long considered one of the all-time greats in the era of Negro baseball, received his A. B. degree from Shaw in 1925 where he was a standout in football, baseball, and basketball. Under his tutelage, Shaw's baseball program is recognized as one of the best in college circles. His teams the last four seasons have a combined won-lost record of 54-14. Chuck Hinton, now a versatile star for the American League-leading Cleveland Indians, learned his baseball "savvy" under Lytle here at Shaw.

Red Cross Marks 50 Yrs. With Military

Fifty years ago, on June 18, the American Red Cross inaugurated its chapter program of helping families of members of the U. S. military services, according to David Cockman, Chapter Chairman.

On this date in 1916 the country's National Guard was mobilized to protect the U. S. Mexican border, and each chapter was requested to collect relief supplies to be used in caring for guardsmen's families. This infant venture in aid to military families cost Red Cross around $100,000.

Today, Mr. Cockman said, about one of every three families of servicemen on duty around the world is being helped in some way by its local chapter or by Red Cross staff with U. S. forces at military installations.

In the Wake County Chapter within the past year, help has been given to 1360 cases, including emergency communications, emergency financial aid, welfare reports, verifications needed by the military before emergency leaves can be granted, personal and family counseling ranging from helping a service wife adjust to living on her allotment to assisting a distressed family which has just been notified of the death of a son in Viet Nam.

Over the nation these services, Cockman stated, have increased nearly 25 per cent within the past year -- a direct result of increased numbers of servicemen in South Viet Nam separated from their families. "Military wives clubs, Red Cross-military advisory councils to help new servicemen's families get oriented to military life, also "Voices from Home" message programs for overseas servicemen, are becoming popular as special services given to families of Viet Nam-based forces," Cockman said.

INDIRECT APPROACH
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah -- A group of young Mormon scholars, in announcing the publication of the first issue of a new quarterly, "Dialogue: A Journal of Mormon Thought," noted, among other things that the subject of exclusion of Negroes from the Mormon priesthood "would probably be approached indirectly." Subsequent issues will also cover such topics as pornography, civil rights and the impact of commercial values on art and religion.
