

Suicide

Mr. Jones was struck by a car about eight months ago and was still weak, according to a spokesman at his home.
Young Jones, a star baseball player at J. W. Ligon High School, told officers he opened the pool about 8:40 a.m. and was in the process of cleaning up on the outside of the fenced in area, when he saw a colored male come into the pool area, go directly to the ladder in the 10 foot deep section and climb down into the water.
"I hollered at the man not to go into the pool, that we were not open yet."

Jones stated further, "The man submerged himself under and I then called the lifeguard at his home." James Albert (Dink) Johnson, 18, of 120 Lincoln Ct., the lifeguard, arrived in about five minutes and both youths pulled Mr. Jones out. Artificial respiration was applied while the police and an ambulance was summoned.
Young Johnson stated, "Mr. Jones was holding himself under the water," apparently by the rails or pipes.
Johnson also told a CAROLINIAN newsman Tuesday that the victim was dressed in brown pants, light colored shirt, no tie and no coat.

Mr. Jones was officially pronounced dead on arrival at Wake Memorial Hospital a few minutes after the 9:04 a.m. drowning.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday at 1 p.m. from the St. Matthew AME Church, 805 E. Davie St., with the pastor, the Rev. John Frederick Epps, officiating. Interment took place in Carolina Biblical Gardens.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Rosa Prince, of Durham, and one brother, Mr. Thomas Jones, of this city.

the Mayor's Sub-committee on Minority Housing. The group met at 7:30 a.m. at the residence of Mrs. Archie Henderson, chairman of the Sub-committee, to receive instructions concerning the survey.
Mrs. Henderson stated that other parts of the city will receive the same "treatment" at a later date. She feels this is a good insight into internal conditions of the dwellings, each volunteer is provided with forms on which they can state their impressions; good, deteriorated, delapidated, or unsafe, with such items as doors, windows, steps, vacant lots, etc; also listed on the slip is a place for recommendations and to declare the homes repairable or non-repairable.

Negro employees, the Legal Defense Fund's complaint asserts, "Have been hired for menial and low paying jobs solely on basis of race and color."

Matters regarding salary, terms of employment, conditions and privileges "have been governed and controlled by collective bargaining agreements entered into by defendants P. Lorillard and the Union," the complaint asserts.

Following discussions with the President's Committee on Equal Job Opportunities, P. Lorillard instituted department seniority provisions dividing employees into nine different job categories.

If Negroes leave the blending and services department, which attorneys describe as being "one step above sweeping," they lose seniority, hence they are confined to the same positions.

The Legal Defense Fund suit followed a complaint with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission under Title VII of the 1966 Civil Rights Act.

"Feeble"

Moore. Bishop Stewart let it be known that he felt that the governor's feeble repudiation was only fodder to fan the fire of hate and violence which the "hooded club" had ignited in North Carolina.

The high churchman pointed out that deceit was perhaps the most treacherous weapon known to mankind. He charged that it thrived upon dishonesty. He said church people should substitute balance for deceit and give out a ray of hope for a better life through a more brilliant display of interest in human life.

The speaker was highly critical of those who preached a "God is Dead" philosophy and charged that man had put too small a premium on life. He warned ministers that they should preach a courageous gospel. One that would move the Ku Klux Klan to know that God is on the throne -- Preach until Governor Moore became conscious of his duty to all citizens, regardless of color -- Preach until white men recognized that black men were their brothers and live likewise -- Preach until hate and jealousy disappeared.

He ended by saying that the world was misguided and tired. He felt that men were walking in space while people on earth were left to do as they pleased, without regard for the rights of others.

tavern and subsequently from the State of Florida. Thomas is also known as "James Whitfield", "Man" and "Spot".

A Federal warrant was issued on January 6, 1960, at Miami, Florida, charging Thomas with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

This fugitive, who may now be using an artificial eye or wearing an eye patch, has previously been convicted of possession of lottery tickets.

Since he is being sought for a murder in which the victim was stabbed to death, Thomas should be considered very dangerous.

According to Taylor, many of the local group have arranged their vacation from secular jobs so they can attend the entire convention.

"Most people spend a vacation at the shore or in the mountains, and they cannot conceive of families using their vacations to attend sessions of Bible talks," he said.

"It's love of God and of one another," Taylor explained. "Love expresses itself by action, by what it does. So a grand occasion for displaying Christian love is when we

Advertisement for CAROLINA POWER & LIGHT COMPANY. Text: "Would you believe that you can install central air conditioning and get a new heating system at the same time? You Can! You can with the amazing all-season electric heat pump. And it's very practical. Right now, during the tail end of this scorching summer season, you can cool off with refreshing air conditioning. In the soon-to-come winter months, you can have a snugly warm central heating system—all in a single compact unit. The heat pump requires no separate heating and cooling equipment to complicate things, no bulky furnace, no regular adjustment. The unit switches automatically from heating to cooling and back again as the weather demands. And the cost of installing a heat pump is just a little more than a good central cooling system by itself. So you're really getting a heating system as an added bonus. Don't just wish you could cool off. Do it—right now—with the electric heat pump. Then settle back and enjoy winter, too. Call or visit our nearest office for more information. CAROLINA POWER & LIGHT COMPANY. An investor-owned, taxpaying public utility company."
