

RAPE RAP AGAINST STUDENT REDUCED

Says Man Entered Her Room

BY STAFF WRITER
A Raleigh woman, age unlisted, apparently left her home and checked in at the Peebles' Hotel, 122 E. Hargett Street, at 1 a. m. Saturday, according to records and files available at the Raleigh Police Department. Before the morning was over, the woman said she had been raped. The young man "fingered" by her was bound over to Wake County Superior Court Tuesday, charged with assault with intent to commit rape. His bond is $1,000.

Miss Lorraine Harriett Barbour, of 610 1/2 Alston Street, told Officers Norman Artis and James Daye at 5:47 a. m. Saturday, she rented room number 15 at Peebles' around 1 a. m. that day.

The complainant further declared that about 5 a. m., someone kicked open the door to her room. She said she "reported" this to a man in the hall and returned to her room.

Miss Barbour stated that after she was back in the room, she discovered a Negro male there and he proceeded to rape her.

She later identified John Israel Pinckney, 23, a student at W. W. Holding Technical Institute here, and a native of Columbus County, as the alleged rapist.

Pinckney, who also lives in the hotel, room 12, was originally held without bond on the capital charge of rape, but testimony in Raleigh's City Court Tuesday was evidence enough for Judge S. Pretlow Winborne (See RAPE RAP, P. 2)

Prince Hall Frat Picks Blond Girl

NEW YORK (NPI) - The Prince Hall Shriners have crowned a white teenage girl as "Miss Shrine Princess of 1966."

The national Negro organization gave its top scholarship prize, for the first time, to a white girl, Dianne Dittrich, 19.

Miss Dittrich won over 19 Negro teenage girl finalists in the annual scholarship competition. She received a $1,500 scholarship to help continue her studies at the Juilliard School of Music.

Prince Hall spokesmen said whites are not excluded from their temples and that white girls have won lesser prizes in past years.

Miss Dittrich was chosen by the judges from the field of 20 finalists on the basis of "talent, personality, and general deportment."

The annual scholarship contest is to select the girl with the most "potential in the living arts."

Miss Dittrich was crowned at the potentate's ball, the high spot of the annual national convention of the Prince Hall Shriners.

Seniors

All prospective seniors at the John W. Ligon High School are asked to see page 17 in this week's edition of THE CAROLINIAN for their homeroom class numbers. During the past two weeks, as a public service, this newspaper has carried the names and homeroom class assignments of sophomores and juniors. This is the final week - thus the seniors are listed. All students whose names do not appear, are to report to the school's auditorium for their homeroom assignments. Those whose names are carried should report directly to the room number listed above their names.

Citizens Of Garner Ask Action

BY ROY L. COLLINS
GARNER - The Community Betterment Club of Garner has shown that their worse problem in promoting a better community is the Zanzibar Club, a night club, owned by Mr. J. O. Bridges, which the residents of that area consider as "A Hole in the Wall."

Members agreed that it, the club, seems to have some incident happening every weekend and that its closing hours are far beyond the regular time they feel it should close. It was also stated that some teenagers have gone to the extreme and like to create problems, start fights, and loiter in the streets, which cause the families in the neighborhood to remain sleepless until about 2:30 a. m. for approximately one-half mile of this Juke joint.

It was also declared that several incidents have been started at the club and carried into other residents' yards. One incident allegedly happened last week, in which about 30 angry teenagers invaded a citizens yard and he fired shots at them and chased them into the streets.

Drunk Jailed At Scene Of 'Action'

Lewis Troublefield, of B-14 Washington Terrace, told Officers Jimmy Mohiser and B. W. Peoples at 2:35 a. m. Tuesday, that during a fight between Tommy Watson, 20, of Greensboro, and another colored male, "known to me only as 'Crew,' who lives somewhere in Raleigh," his windshield and radio antennae were broken at the corner of East and Cabarrus Streets.

Dan Moncrief, of 424 South Person Street, was arrested on the scene as a public drunk. "Crew" was said to be Moncrief's buddy, but the latter refused to "rat" on him.

Mr. Troublefield said "Crew" threw young Watson into his car, causing the damage to the windshield and antennae of the 1956 Oldsmobile, which was placed at $125.
