ing a trip to Canada, when Jones decided to return to the city and view the Shriners' parade and old friends last Wednesday.

He had parked his automobile near the front of Lemuel T. Delany's funeral home, corner of 132nd Street and 7th Avenue, and was carrying some of his clothes upstairs to the apartment of Walter W. Hunt. (Both Delany and Hunt are Raleigh natives.)

As Jones returned to his car, he discovered, to his amazement, that it had been robbed, although he had been away from it less than ten minutes.

Stolen was merchandise belonging to each member of the Jones family. Included in the "haul" were five pairs of shoes, valued at $80; six dresses, costing $250; two new suits, $190; one suitcase, $75; and one shaving kit, $25.

The total amount of the loss was $620.

Mrs. Jones and daughter are still vacationing in Canada, but Mr. Jones said the experience "drained me of all vacation-type feelings, and that's why I came back home. They will return soon," he concluded. Mr. Jones stated the main reason he wanted his story publicized was to warn others from this area who might be planning northern trips soon.

Crap shooting, reportedly, has also become a major problem at the club, and in drive-ways of surrounding houses in that area, even in the streets under street lights, it was said. It was also stated that several town officials have passed in cars, took one look, and kept on riding.

The people in the area said the trouble of shooting crap has been the major problem in Garner, by the teenagers. The town board in Garner is taking all facts under consideration since its last board meeting last Monday night. Another problem that has erupted in the town since the opening of that club, one of the members stated, is the fact that two or three "funny things" (homosexuals) with big leg pants (bell bottoms) parade up and down the streets with wigs on their heads, but the person stated that the trouble is not caused by such people.

The major trouble-shooters are the individuals of Old Stage Road and gangs from Auburn, Zebulon, Fuquay, and Clayton. But in an interview with one of the members, he stated that, "the trouble was pointing directly at Old Stage Road youngsters and groupings, alike."

WASHINGTON AND*"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

The State of Nevada is the locale of one of the strangest maneuvers yet concocted by the National Labor Relations Board.

Recently in Reno a newly formed union carried on a drive to organize the employees in the gambling casino of one of the hotels.

The union certified to the NLRB that they had sufficient signatures to call for an election.

The casino's attorney filed a subpoena on NLRB records to ascertain if this allegation were true. The regional office of NLRB sent two attorneys into Reno, one to oppose the subpoena, the other to preside as hearing officer. It is not too difficult to see that under such circumstances, the subpoena was denied.

But while this may seem quite strange, it is perhaps not nearly as strange as the NLRB claiming jurisdiction in what is solely a state concern.

As everyone knows, Nevada stands alone in operating gambling casinos. The element of interstate commerce, that handy tool often used for Federal interference in the affairs of a state, is strangely missing. As a matter of fact, since around 1946 the shipment of slot machines, a prominent item in Nevada, across state lines is forbidden by Federal law.

Yet, the NLRB claims jurisdiction of the employee-employer relations in Nevada's Quota Plan to be appropriated as follows -- Shaw University, $20,000.00; and foreign missions, $5,000.00. The drive, to begin October 3, 1966 and close in May, 1967, during the one-day session of the General Baptist State Convention. (3) Since God's arms are not short, the need is so great and Jesus proclaimed nearly two-thousand years ago, "Go ye into all the world." We further recommend that we continue to support Quilla Jean Montgomery, a junior in the school of nursing at Winston-Salem State College through the Cora Pair Thomas Scholarship Fund, that this young lady may represent our interest and concern on the foreign field as a full-time missionary through the Lott Carey Convention.

This is a letter that Mrs. M. A. Horne, along with the other delegates, wrote to the Governor of North Carolina during the week of their convention here in Raleigh.

The Honorable Dan K. Moore, Governor

The State of North Carolina Raleigh, North Carolina Dear Sir:

Greetings from the Woman's Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary Convention of North Carolina, representing over 1700 Baptist churches and over 350,000 Baptists, meeting in its 82nd annual session with the First Baptist Church, Raleigh, North Carolina, The Reverend C. W. Ward, Minister, the week of August 16-19, 1966. Mrs. M. A. Horne, President, presiding.

Cognizant of the fact that having come into the office of Governor at a time with many problems to be faced in the great progressive State of North Carolina, we commend you for the stand you have taken in coping with some of them.

Realizing that some legislation has been passed relative to solving some of these problems, as representatives of this religious body, we feel that stronger teeth should be put in the future enacted laws for the building of a better state.

We are appalled in growth of the Ku Klux Klan activity in our state, and strongly urge that you reconsider the disagreeable impact it has on our state which misrepresents all decent people.

We further urge that the pressures be lifted which are causing many of our people to be left out of job opportunities and freedoms which are the constitutional and legislative rights of all people.

We pray God's blessings upon you in all your decisions. Done this the nineteenth day of August in the year of our Lord, 1966, Raleigh, North Carolina. Mrs. M. A. Horne, President, Dr. Ellen S. Alston, Executive Secretary, and Mrs. Thelma C. Horton, Chairman, Publicity Committee.

There are numerous crabgrass killers on the market that will brown and kill existing plants. These will be helpful now but the best way to control crabgrass is to apply a pre-emergence killer in late fall or early spring. This type of control kills seedlings as they sprout so you need never see a full-grown plant.

The best time of day to cut annual flowers for use indoors is in early morning. Next best time is in early evening. If you will take into the garden with you a pail of water the same temperature as the outdoor air and pop each flower stem into it as soon as you have cut it you'll find that the blooms last longer.

NCNW Announces Training Grant Award

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Miss Dorothy I. Height, president of the National Council of Negro Women, announced this week a training grant award of $154,193.00. The Commissioner of Welfare, U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare approved the application submitted by the Council through the Office of Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Development.

Three demonstration cities have been selected: Miami, Florida, Danville, Virginia and Minneapolis, Minnesota, where by J. M. Amberson, M.D.

Heart Disease

In this ever-changing age of technical discovery, the human heart remains the most remarkable machine of all. In the average adult, this tough muscular pump about 5 quarts of blood through the body's 135 miles of blood vessels approximately every minute. This is equivalent to pumping about 1,368 gallons of blood every 24 hours.

If Americans paid as much attention to their hearts as they do to their automobiles, the staggering statistic that one out of 16 Americans succumb to heart disease would be sharply reduced. There are over 500,000 deaths from heart attacks annually--and one third are among men in the "prime of life."

In studying the living habits of patients who have cardiac conditions, scientists usually discover one or more of these conditions: Overweight, hypertension, unbalanced diet, lack of exercise, excessive smoking, diabetes, and family history of heart trouble.

Whether you have heart disease or not, here are some suggestions you would do well to follow for general well-being, especially if you are in the "prime of life": Replace some of the animal fats in your diet with the polyunsaturated kind found in vegetable oils. Learn to be a calorie watcher so you don't gain excess weight that will tax your heart to work harder. Control hypertension (high blood pressure) by carefully following your physician's advice. Cut down or cut out smoking.

Studies indicate that men who lead sedentary lives are more prone to heart attacks, so set up a sensible exercise regimen--do, but don't overdo. To increase human life-span in the future, physicians are now researching for aids to prevent hardening of arteries in teen-agers or even as early as infancy.

If you have a family history of heart trouble, turn it to advantage by heeding the warning light and take steps to reduce the risk factors within your control. Annual physical examinations, with chest x-rays and electrocardiograms, are vital ingredients of a prescription you should literally "take to heart."

the local Negro Women's Council will sponsor the training programs.

Trainees will be women with the interest and leadership potential drawn from the local council and its affiliates along areas who may have never before been recruited as volunteers to serve their community. These women from varied backgrounds and experiences will be trained to work as volunteers with pre-delinquent and delinquent girls.

With the aid of a professional leadership staff, these women will be involved in an intensive training course to be followed by supervised work in the local institutions which touch in some way these girls, e.g. community action programs; social institutions such as juvenile court, settlement house, school truancy and dropout programs, institutions for the abandoned and neglected.

The target population is made up of girls who are at the bottom of the economic and educational ladder. In alarming numbers the non-white teen age girl out of school and out of work in larger proportions than any other group in the population today. Many of these girls have been isolated from the mainstream of life and living; they have never been a part of nor able to cope with the traditional agencies, programs and services of the community.

Training content, methodology, leadership emphasis and participant motivation and the skill laboratory will serve as training models for the Office of Juvenile Delinquency and Youth Development, as well as feed-back to other local councils all over the country.

The National Council of Negro Women recognizes that the frustrations of women from the lower socio-economic class, and especially the Negro woman, stems not only from an isolated position in the American Community but also because of inadequacies in our systems of communication and understanding. The National Council of Negro Women sees its role as one of redirection, with a focus on closing the gap with adequate supportive tools of intervention. There is now new appreciation for the role of women from all segments of minority groups in community services. This training program is in response to this change attitude.

Witnesses' Minister Tells Of Baltimore Convention

A delegation of Jehovah's Witnesses from Raleigh, has just returned from the group's annual district convention in Baltimore, Maryland.

Titled the "God's Sons of Liberty" District Assembly, it was held August 17-21 in Memorial Stadium, home of the baseball Orioles, at the city's special invitation. The convention attracted 61,155 persons and was the largest ever held in Baltimore.

Joseph Taylor, of 1108 South State Street, Raleigh, presiding minister of the Witnesses in this area, said the gathering was "held to strengthen the faith of all who attended."

As always, the convention session featured talks, discussions and interviews on important Bible subjects," he said. "But this year a new feature was added--dramatizations in full costume of important incidents from the Bible."

According to Taylor, the outstanding half-long dramatization was presented by nearly a hundred actors, all unpaid Witnesses, who portrayed some Bzzz. The alarm signals the beginning of another day.

You wash your face, brush your teeth, cook breakfast, turn on the news. You do the dishes, run the sewing machine, wash and dry the family laundry.

Later, you mix the batter, chill the dessert and carve the roast. Perhaps, you even sneak a few minutes of relaxation watching television.

All these activities—and countless more—are made possible or easier by electricity. In fact, there are 166 ways that electric service can help you around the house.

For all this, you pay the lowest price ever per unit of power—about 14 percent lower than 10 years ago.

Long on value, low in price. A tough combination to beat.
